60 Dead—100 Injured In Three Train Wreck In Rio de Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Rescue workers Saturday night removed 58 bodies from the tangled wreckage of three commuter trains that smashed together north of Rio de Janeiro.

At least two more bodies were believed still in the smashed cars.

Brazil railroad officials gave the estimate of 60 dead and said about 100 persons were injured. They began an investigation into the accident, one of Brazil's worst railways disasters.

One crowded train speeding through rain and darkness slammed into two others halted because of a signal failure at the village of Santa Cruz, 35 miles north of Rio de Janeiro.

Broken bits of cars were scattered along the track. In one small area 15 coaches were telescoped. Wires of the electric railroad snapped and dropped over the wreckage, adding to the panic.

Work In Rain

Lightning flashes and rain fell in torrents as hundreds of men from a nearby air force base and from hospitals worked in the night to pull passengers from the debris.

Juan Lama Tombo, 20, a Spaniard who escaped through an emergency door of one of the waiting trains said:

"Everything happened in a fraction of a second. One minute I was reading a newspaper. The next minute all was confusion. Everyone was shouting and running."

Troops Guard Area

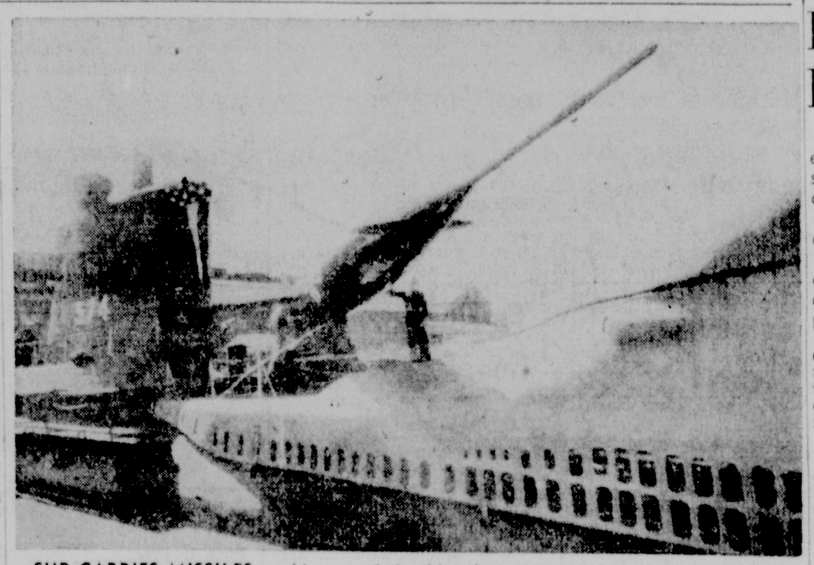

Troops surrounded the area and held back relatives and freinds of passengers.

A Federal railroad spokesman said "the moving train was proceeding at an inadvisable speed and struck the other two with tremendous impact." He said the victims were without medical aid for 2½ hours.

Damaged Signal System

Storms which have flooded parts of Brazil damaged the signal system. While two of the trains waited because the signals were out, the third apparently moved on with no warning of any trouble ahead.

It was Brazil's worst rail disaster since March 4, 1952, when 119 persons died 22 miles north of Rio de Janeiro on the same tracks —the railroad's main line. Two electric trains collided head-on at a bridge in that accident.

Proposes Stepped-Up Spending, Extended Unemployment Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Saturday proposed to extend unemployment benefits "for a brief period" and said the government was speeding up spending in a number of fields to combat the economic slump. But he strongly opposed a revival of "pump-priming" of the WPA kind.

In a letter to GOP leaders of Congress, Eisenhower outlined measures he has ordered or is proposing to help spur business and provide more jobs.

Among the steps mentioned were speedups in the tempo of highway building, reclamation projects, aids to homebuilding, construction of federal buildings and flood control projects. Some of the measures would begin to take effect quickly, others are planned for 1959 or later.

Among other things, the President said he has directed government agencies "to accelerate where practical the construction of projects for which appropriated funds are available."

Johnson Comments

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said the President's announcement "is a commendably prompt, partial reaction to the new call for action issued in the Congress this past week."

"The details of his pump-priming program are not clear," Johnson said. "I assume he authorized the Republican leaders to give us the details of his program so we will have some idea of the things he recommends we consider.

"I agree fully with the President's statement that the economy is at its best when people manage wisely their own resources. We have five million unemployed who have few resources to manage wisely or unwisely."

Democratic Reaction

One immediate Democratic reaction was that the Eisenhower program was too little. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), sponsor of a Democratic housing bill the Senate will consider next week, said a proposed outlay of an additional 186 million dollars for reclamation, flood control and other water projects sounds rather small.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said he was "delighted the President is getting behind the proposals of Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson

Prepare To Evacuate U.S. Oil Workers In Central Sumatra

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Former Vice President Mohammed Hatta was reported Saturday insisting on a truce with the central Sumatran rebels as signs of a showdown multiplied.

U. S. oil company officials went into a meeting with U. S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones to survey plans for evacuating American oil workers and their dependents in central Sumatra.

Revolutionary army headquarters at Padang, central Sumatra, said it expected government troop landings in that area within 24 hours. Two Jakarta air force bombers dropped leaflets over Padang warning an invasion would take place "in a very short time."

Informed sources said Hatta's insistence on a truce before negotiating a settlement with the rebels brought the sudden postponement of a meeting with President Sukarno Friday.

Hatta wants to link a truce with the formation of a presidential cabinet. Sukarno wants to take up these problems separately.

Hatta, a former political ally of Sukarno, would be a member of the new cabinet. Many quarters feel his inclusion in the government would bring the rebels around to making peace.

Hatta quit the government more than a year ago after Sukarno had set up his program for "guided democracy." The program instituted the National Council, an advisory group, which includes 12 Communists. Hatta claimed the Communists would have too much influence on the government.

Postponement of Sukarno's talks with Hatta brought gloom to Indonesian quarters urging a settlement of the crisis through negotiation rather than force.

The crisis threatens to bring civil war. The Rebels proclaimed their own government Feb. 15.

Navy Postpones Vanguard Firing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy tried again Saturday without success to put up its Vanguard satellite test rocket in daylight.

A crew worked on the temperamental 72-foot rocket most of the day and three times rolled the working crane back, leaving the missile apparently ready for launching.

Each time some difficulties cropped up and prevented a firing.

Dr. John P. Haben director of Project Vanguard, said in Washington the firing was called off "on the basis of the weather closing in."

A heavy fog moved in on the launching site late in the afternoon.

Fear Sweeps Cuba: Castro's Rebels Threaten Strike

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro's threat to call a general revolutionary strike at any hour sent fear surging through Cuba Saturday.

Some U.S. citizens sent their families to Miami and elsewhere in the United States. Those who stayed stocked up on food supplies. Havana's big foreign colony was tense.

Rebel sources said Castro may call the strike for Monday — the sixth anniversary of President Fulgencio Batista's rise to power. Castro has predicted a strike would topple Batista.

There are indications of some nervousness within Batista's government. Batista Friday called off his own anniversary celebrations scheduled for Monday. He has given his troops orders to be ready to crush any general walkout of workers.

Rebel bulletins flooded Havana and other major cities.

"Our final blow," they said, "will be a general revolutionary strike, firmly organized in all workers' sections and with spontaneous collaboration of the Cuban people."

They said Batista will be overthrown and the "comedy of false elections" will be ended.

The campaign for the presidential election June 1 is getting under way. Opposition candidates charge, however, they have no real chance of bucking Batista's candidate, former Premier Jose Aguero Rivero.

The rebel bulletins recalled that a general strike preceded the downfall of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez in Venezuela earlier this year.

Castro is seeking what he lacked in two previous strike calls last year—coordination. He promises that the strike will be well-timed and fully supported.

PREGNANT IDEA

ANADARKO, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. Gerald Thompson was worried when highway crews began tearing up the pavement and blocking off streets in front of her home.

She consulted with highway engineer Ed Kidd and asked if he could leave passage for emergencies. It was arranged, and without any trouble getting to the hospital, Mrs. Thomason gave birth to a baby.

Prof. Bernbaum, Former Teacher At U Of I, Dies

JAFFREY, N. H. (AP) — Prof. Ernest Bernbaum, 79, former head of the English department at the University of Illinois, died Saturday at his home in Jaffrey Center. He suffered a stroke.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he had been a summer resident at Jaffrey for 58 years and lived here permanently since his retirement in 1945.

He was graduated from Harvard in 1902, received his master's degree in 1905 and his doctorate in 1907.

Dr. Bernbaum taught at Harvard until 1916 when he received an appointment as professor of English at the University of Illinois. He was chosen head of the department in 1925.

He was a member of the American Assn. of University professors, the American Scandinavian Assn., and founder of the Amos Fortune Forum in Jaffrey.

His widow, the former Ruth Guenther, survives.

Cremation will be at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass. A memorial service will be held March 12 at the First Church in Jaffrey Center.

Russia Maneuvers To Force U.S. To Accept Communist Empire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is maneuvering to force U.S. acceptance of its political stranglehold on Communist Eastern Europe.

This was described by U.S. officials Saturday as a major purpose behind Moscow's insistent drive for an East-West summit conference.

This exchange, including an unexpected message from Premier Nikolai Bulganin to President Eisenhower, showed that the Kremlin and the White House are talking about two different kinds of summit meetings.

It also confirmed earlier impressions here and in Western Europe that barring major concessions on one side or the other, the only major issues with which a summit meeting can grapple directly are in the field of disarmament.

Secretary of State Dulles accused the Soviets of simply wanting a "spectacle" conference which would deceive the world into thinking that peace has come at last.

What Dulles did not spell out is that U. S. and allied leaders see such a deception as a dangerous weapon in the hands of the Russians. They fear it would weaken the resolve of the free nations to preserve their system of anti-Communist alliances and their resistance to Communist pressures.

But the significance of the spectacle, high officials said Saturday, would go much farther. The dramatic meeting which the Soviets seek could be converted by them into a symbol of Western acceptance of the vast empire which Soviet communism has formed during and since World War II.

It is because of such vital considerations as these, officials declared, that Eisenhower and Dulles have rejected Russia's terms for a summit conference. They have insisted on the kind of conference—and preliminary preparations—which they think would protect the interests of the Western powers.

Simpson Calls For Immediate 6 Billion Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP — Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa) Saturday threw his influential weight behind the congressional movement for a sizeable tax cut.

He called for a six-billion-dollar slash applying to both individuals and businesses effective immediately. This would boost the slumping economy, he said, and wind up bringing the Treasury more revenue than before.

Simpson is the No. 3 Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. He also is chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

His tax reduction proposals were unfolded in a Lincoln Day speech at Parkersburg, W. Va. In a copy of his prepared remarks issued here, Simpson called for these cuts:

1. An across-the-board 10 per cent cut in individual income taxes, plus lowering the top income tax rate from 91 to 70 per cent. Estimated tax relief: $3,700,000,000.

2. Reduction of corporate income tax rates from 52 to 50 per cent. Estimated relief: 800 million dollars.

3. Tax benefits for small businesses as recommended by President Eisenhower. Estimated relief: 200 million dollars.

4. Cuts in various types of excise taxes, including repeal of the tax on transportation of persons and lowering of excise on autos. Estimated cost: $1,300,000,000.

Aiken Says Dropping Benson Would Be Political Mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said Saturday that one of the worst political mistakes the Eisenhower administration could make right now would be to let Secretary of Agriculture Benson go.

With many farm belt Republicans and Democrats demanding Benson's scalp, Aiken said: "We've never had a secretary of agriculture so popular with the processors, dealers and handlers of farm products. And I better add consumers and housewives to his list."

At the same time Aiken, senior Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee, reiterated his opposition to Benson's April 1 plan of cutting government prices supports on dairy products.

"He makes it very difficult for some of us to support him even when he's right," Aiken commented in an interview.

Aiken, who helped put the administration's flexible price support program over, surprised many by voting with a majority of the Agriculture Comittee last week for several bills that would freeze this year's price support and acreage controls at last year's levels.

Some Midwest Republican congressmen, worried by Democratic gains in recent elections, have appealed to President Eisenhower to dump Benson before the fall congressional voting. Eisenhower has turned a deaf ear.

"Secretary Benson is not losing votes for the Republican party,"

Recover 4 Bodies Of 26 Missing In Plane Crash

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — Search parties Saturday recovered four bodies from shallow seas where a Marine transport plane and a fighter-bomber fell after colliding Friday night. It was feared 26 were dead.

The Marine Corps in Washington issued a list identifying 17 dead and nine missing in the collision but service officials here and in Tokyo declined to fix any death figure.

The Navy reported hours after the collision that no survivors had been found. The transport carried 19 passengers and 6 crewmen. The attack bomber was a single seater.

Other bodies were spotted at the wreck scene, about three miles from the U. S. Navy Air Station near Naha.

Mist and rough waters hampered the search by U.S. ships and planes.

The wreckage was first seen by an Air Force helicopter near the small island of Senaga.

The AD5 and the R4Q, the Marine version of the Air Force's C119 Flying Boxcar, were returning from amphibious maneuvers in the Philippines.

They took off from Subic Bay, a U.S. Navy base west of Manila, and both were heading for a landing at the end of the 850-mile trip.

The control tower operator said one of the planes had radioed shortly after dark. He said he saw a flash in the sky a few minutes later. Other witnesses said they heard an explosion and say "a ball of fire" fall into the sea.

VANISHING AMERICANA

DES MOINES (AP)—Each spittoon in the Polk county courthouse here carried a little note recently which said, in effect:

"Clean your own spittoon or the custodians will take it away."

That just about did it. But Clyde Beattie, grand jury bailiff, was permitted to retain his on his promise to clean it himself. The others have been removed.

Reuther Urges 'Sanity' In Probe Of Kohler Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter P. Reuther Saturday urged "sanity" in the Senate Rackets Committee's investigation of the Kohler Co. strike so the "hearing does not continue to deteriorate into a political brawl and name-calling contest."

The United Auto Workers Union president at the same time challenged a committee member, Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) to try and prove before a selected six-member panel of ministers Goldwater's recent charges Reuther and the UAW "are a more dangerous menace than the Sputniks or anything Russia might do."

If the ministers, three to be selected by each, uphold the senator's view, Reuther said he would resign his presidency of the UAW, vice presidency of the AFL-CIO, and quit the labor movement entirely.

If the panel decides against Goldwater, Reuther said in a letter to the Arizona Republican, "I would leave it up to your own conscience as to whether you would consider yourself fit to continue to play a role in American public life."

Harris Says Ike's In-Law To Testify In FCC Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harris (D-Ark) said Saturday Richard A. Mack may have had an income of up to $75,000 in two years when his official pay as a federal communications commissioner was only around half that amount.

At the same time Harris announced the scheduling of Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. George Gordon Moore, for under-oath testimony March 17 before Harris' House subcommittee investigating regulatory agencies.

Harris said Moore was not appearing under subpoena and had not been asked to bring his records.

Moore has denied having any interest in the FCC's award of television Channel 10 in Miami, a main subject of the House inquiry so far, or in any other application before the agency.

Mack resigned last Monday after committee hearings brought out his financial dealings with Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami lawyer who favored National Airlines' successful application in the Channel 10 case. Mack voted for National but denied Whiteside influenced him.

Whiteside has been called before a federal grand jury here. The Justice Department has indicated the grand jury probe extends beyond the Channel 10 case but has not said how far.

Gore Says Senate Will Okay Highway Building Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) predicted Saturday the Senate will pass a bill this month sharply boosting federal funds for roadbuilding projects over the nation.

Gore, chairman of the Senate Public Roads subcommittee, plans to get the measure out of the Public Works Committee next week.

"I am confident it will be passed by the Senate before we take the Easter recess," he told a reporter. The recess starts April 3.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas said yesterday he hopes the highway legislation could reach the floor during the week of March 17.

Gore has introduced his own bill to accelerate highway construction. He said he was sure the final Senate product would contain the main features of his measure, although he was ready to discuss proposed improvements.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks has been invited to give the administration's views on the Gore bill at a public hearing Tuesday.

The Tennessee senator said there had been some indication the administration might offer a proposal of its own to speed up road work.

"The highway program always has always been bipartisan, and we want to keep it that way," Gore said. "We certainly welcome suggestions from any quarter."

Gore's bill would provide the extra 12½ billion dollars of federal-state financing needed to complete on its original 13-year schedule the 41,000-mile superhighway network. As the law stands, this program probably will be stretched out to as much as 25 years.

Gore's measure also would make available 900 million dollars of extra federal money at once for other Washington-aided road systems—the primary, farm-to-market, and urban routes. Half of this would be in loans to the states.

Another provision is one that Gore said he believes would win Republican support on the public works committee.

This would put the extra 1,000 miles added to the interstate system of superhighways in the 1956 Highway Act on an equal footing with the other 40,000 miles and make it possible for the 1,000 miles to be built as the states desire.

The 1956 law did not provide financing for the 1,000 miles so that its construction was left to the tail end of the program.

Promise Blind Student Reunion With His Dog

HACKBRIDGE, England (AP — A blind American student Saturday was promised a reunion Tuesday with his guide dog Binney, held for the last six months in Hackbridge Kennels under Britain's rigid quarantine laws.

Jeff Davis Duty, 22, of Rogers, Ark., was parted from his dog last September when he arrived to study law at the London School of Economics.

The parting aroused angry feelings in this country of dog lovers. But authorities insisted Binney should be kept in quarantine for six months at the kennels in this Surrey town near London. Duty decided to carry on without him rather than break in a new guide dog.

Tuesday, provided the dog gets a final medical clearance, Binney is expected to rejoin his master, one of 200 Americans studying under Fulbright scholarships.

JOLIET LISTED WITH OTHER FAST GROWING JOB AREAS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Saturday that California's Los Angeles-Long Beach area created more new jobs in the 1950-55 period than any other area of the United States.

A number of other areas showed a greater ratio of job growth during the period but the greatest number of new jobs was counted at Los Angeles-Long Beach.

The data was reported in a new "area manpower guidebook" published by the labor department, reflecting non-farm employment. It showed a national average increase of 17.5 per cent in non-farm employment in 1950-55.

The sharpest proportionate employment rise in the 1950-55 period was 142 per cent at Las Vegas, Nevada.

Other fastest growing job areas included Joliet, Ill., with a 43.3 per cent 1950-55 increase.

Stratton told the gathering that President David D. Henry of the University was instrumental in obtaining the building. The structure had been cut from the university's plans several times for economic reasons.

Army Drops Plan Of Rotating Entire Divisions In Germany

WASHINGTON (AP — Main features of the Army's gyroscope plan of rotating entire divisions between U. S. home bases and garrison points in Germany are being abandoned.

The Army said Saturday the rotation plan, started three years ago as a morale and efficiency builder, will end in May when the 3rd Infantry Division replaces the 10th Infantry in Germany.

A new system involving the exchange of battle groups and smaller units within infantry divisions in Europe will start in December. A 1,500-man group of the 8th Infantry Division in Europe will be replaced then by an unspecified battle group now training in the United States.

The Army said the change would provide a higher degree of readiness because smaller units will be in transit at a time and the changeover of combat personnel will be more gradual.

A basic reason, however, is the reduced size of the Army which now has only 15 divisions to move around instead of the 19-plus it had three years ago.

Five divisions will continue to be stationed in Western Europe under the new plan. Two of these, the 3rd and 4th, are armored divisions and have been excluded from the smaller unit rotation system. The Army said the two armored divisions will be kept up to strength by the replacement of individuals and small groups of trained men who will be sent abroad periodically to relieve those who have completed their overseas tours.

Also excluded from the unit rotation plan are the supporting elements which will remain overseas and serve the combat units of the three infantry divisions whose battle groups and tactical battalions will be exchanged.

A major part of the original gyroscope plan being eliminated is the home base concept. The Army said that under the new plan, battle groups and battalions will not always exchange posts or stations with the same unit "and may not always return to the same location in the United States."

However, the Army said it would meet its commitments on this point by permitting men who signed up under the Gyroscope program to apply for transfer to units occupying home bases from which the individual soldier left, 24-48 hours.

JHS EXPERIMENTAL CLASS IN NEW STUDY

Jacksonville seniors look over a new textbook introducing them to the third major area of study in the special experimental course at JHS this year. Dr. Leroy J. Garrett, Assistant Professor of Philosophy at MacMurray who teaches the course to the top 12% in the senior class, is shown standing over some of his students.

Students enter the third and final phase Monday, March 10, with the study of ethics. The text, usually confined to colleges, is entitled "Great Traditions In Ethics." It is a compendium of the moral philosophy of such great thinkers as Plato, Aristotle, Epictetus, St. Augustine, Hobbes, Spinoza, Nietzsche, and Dewey.

The course is conducted by MacMurray in cooperation with JHS after a $36,000 grant for that purpose last year by the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis. Entitled "Philosophy of Life," it is designed to help students understand themselves, learn to think properly, and place the proper significance on moral and spiritual values. The areas of Psychology and Logic were studied in the first six months of the course.

One requirement of students in this third area or study will involve research in some basic problem of human conduct, Dr. Garrett reports. He states that they may select from such subjects as "the meaning of duty, the basis of right and wrong, family ethics, problems of drinking, truth, culture and art, goodness of character, and attainability of happiness."

Divided Into 3 Areas

The study of ethics, he states, will be divided into three major areas: the history of morality, which will trace the moral concept from its origin in custom and statutory law of early group life to modern times; the search for a moral standard, which will be a survey of such ethical theories as authoritarianism, duty, power, happiness, and self-realization; and problems of personal and social morality, a study of such issues as freedom, business and professional ethics, medical and legal ethics, marriage and sex, ethics and the atomic age.

The course will conclude with a consideration of the implications of moral philosophy, which will obligate the class to discover truths and principles by which to live. This will involve bringing some old principles up to date as well as such newer concepts as the relationship between education and conduct.

All Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Girl Scouts registered in the four-county Council, of which Jacksonville is headquarters, have the opportunity to participate in year round camping activities.

The Girl Scout Cabin at Camp Shagbank on Lake Jacksonville offers primitive camping for any season, but more specifically during the month of June when Brownie Day Camp is held during the first two weeks and Intermediate and Senior Day and Overnight Camp the last two weeks.

Camping provides the more experience in group living, sharing responsibility and learning outdoor skills than does any other Scouting activity.

3 Generations Of Girl Scouts Prove Its Citizenship-Training Program

In 1912, when Juliette Low determined to bring the British Guide program to girls in the United States, women were not yet voting citizens. On Wednesday, March 12, when the Girl Scout organization observes its 46th anniversary, the record shows that Mrs. Low's youth movement has taught three generations of American girls and women the fundamental responsibilities of citizenship.

Through these years of social, economic and intellectual revolution for American women, some 12 and one-half million American girls and women have received Girl Scout training.

The essentials of the Girl Scout formula for citizenship have remained the same. The formula combines a promise of duty to God and country and learning skills that are as useful to adults as they are to children. The promise has remained the same. The skills have changed as radically as the country itself has changed.

Early Shapeless Uniforms

During the World War I era, Girl Scouts wore a shapeless khaki uniform with over-sized scarf which in an emergency could be whipped off and made into a sling for a broken arm. Troops of Scouts practiced tying their scarves to sturdy branches or poles thus producing an impromptu stretcher.

Today, nearly 3 million girls in the Scout movement also learn elementary first-aid and emergency training. But medical and scientific knowledge has greatly increased since those early days. Modern Girl Scouts now can be found enrolled in Red Cross First Aid courses. Emergency training for Senior Scouts, in cooperation with Civil Defense units, includes learning about radiation effects.

Morse Code To G. O. C.

Thirty and 40 years ago, Girl Scouts spent hour after hour learning Morse Code and practicing semaphore flag signals. Today's Wing Scouts, in their overseas hats and green blazers with white piping, man Ground Observer Corps observation posts and serve as aides at Air Force Filter Centers.

These brief examples indicate how much more complicated the job of training for citizenship has become. Yet much of the common sense evident in early Scouting has survived through the years.

In one of the first editions of the Girl Scout Handbook, Mrs. Low spelled out the meaning of the ten Girl Scout laws. About the first law—"A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted," Mrs. Low wrote: "If a Girl Scout says, 'on my honor it is so,' that means that what she says is as true as if she had taken a solemn oath."

Another Girl Scout law reads: "A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others."

Service Above Self

According to Mrs. Low this means, "she is to do her duty before anything else even if she gives up her own pleasure, safety, or comfort. When in doubt as to which of two things to do she must think, 'Which is my duty?' which means, 'Which is the best for other people?' and do that at once."

"She must be prepared at any time to save a life or help the injured." And Mrs. Low added, "she should do at least one good turn to someone every day."

About the final Girl Scout law, "A Girl Scout is thrifty," Mrs. Low explained. "This means that a Scout avoids all useless waste of every kind.

"She is careful about saving every penny she can put into the bank so that she may have a surplus in time of need. She sees that no food is wasted, and her clothing is cared for properly.

"The Girl Scout does not waste time. She realizes that time is the most precious thing any one of us has. The Girl Scout's time is spent either in useful occupations or in wholesome recreation, and she tries to balance these two harmoniously."

The activities may change, but Mrs. Low's concept of citizenship for women based on duty, service and common sense is likely to be handed down to many more generations of Girl Scouts.

Society Honors New Members At Luncheon

New members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist church were honored at a one o'clock dessert served by Electa Circle. Members who have joined the society this year were presented with corsages.

Mrs. J. A. Mann presided at the meeting. She reminded members to phone reservations to Mrs. Lena Kerns for the district meeting March 25, and to keep in mind the annual meeting at Springfield next month. The Assembly meeting will be held at St. Louis in May.

Mrs. Robert Adams and Mrs. William Doyle sang the devotional hymn, "Rescue The Perishing," accompanied by Mrs. Gail Gilbert.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Alma Engel, using as her theme "March of Missions By Healing." She closed her part of the program with the group singing "Give Your Best To The Master."

Mrs. George Thayer gave the program, "Missions In Healing," assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Watson and Mrs. Webster Seymour.

Gives Talk On Home Decoration To Woodson Club

Mrs. Laurence Fisher gave an informative talk on interior decorating at a meeting of the Woodson Household Science club March 5 at the Southern Aire Cafe. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Harry Craig, program chairman.

Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Newman, Mrs. R. D. Brandon, and Mrs. Amos Western.

Sixteen members answered roll call by naming a spring tonic. Mrs. Dale White, secretary, read minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Ethel Butler was in charge of the social hour. Prizes for a contest were won by Mrs. Dale White and Mrs. Annella Cully.

Guests included Mrs. Ed Cashin, Steve and Janet Western.

Serving of refreshments concluded the social hour.

Hostesses next month will be Mrs. Robert McCormick and Mrs. Arthur Cully.

Girl Scout Activities

Girl Scout Week begins on Sunday, March 9, and citizens of many communities will see Brownies, Intermediates and Seniors in their respective uniforms at church services in various worship places. During the week which follows, the Scouts will make an increased effort to live up to their beliefs and principles as exemplified in the Girl Scout Promise and Laws, their motto and slogan, "You Can Count on Her" . . . to be of service is the slogan of the whole week, and we will see evidences of this through the window exhibits around town, through troop family get-togethers, talks and radio broadcasts, troop birthday celebrations, etc. This organization has been a "going" one and a "growing" one for 46 years, and it has effectively demonstrated its value in the character-building benefits to future womanhood. Happy Birthday, Scouts!

During this week all troops should plan a "Girl Scout You-Can-Count-On-Her - For - Service project for 1958. How about an Outdoor Good Turn? Girl Scout patrols, troops and camp units will be joining in a nationwide Good Turn for the out-of-doors this year. Think of the paths that will be switchbacked, the trees or bushes or grass or ground cover that will be planted, the litter that will be tucked away in litter bags, the birds, animals or flowers that will be protected!

Thousands of outdoor good turns everywhere Girl Scouts hike and camp will be put together for one tremendous good turn for the natural resources of the U.S.A. Good Turns may (1) do something to improve a hike or camp site, making them better places for hiking and camping; (2) protect and encourage wild life; (3) give chances for girls to do some specific girl-sized conservation projects; (4) encourage understanding of conservation activities; and (5) contribute to the present-day efforts of many groups throughout the country in conserving natural resources.

Let's Try It! Join the Fun! Any patrol, troop or camp unit may do so during the rest of 1958, anywhere (in town or in camp). Be sure the group has a hand in planning what to do, why it is needed, how it contributes to conservation, be sure each member of the group has a part in carrying out the project, and be sure each member of the group gains a feeling of how conservation can be carried over to her family and how she may carry out conservation as an individual. Then, tell the office about your good turn.

Hair color is not the arbiter for choosing a make-up. Skin tone determines what shades of foundation, powder and lipstick a woman should use. Therefore, not all blondes use the same make-up even though they may have the same hair color.

Thor Bases For England Will Be 'Sitting Duck' Risk, Experts Say

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Some top Air Force missile experts frankly admit that the Thor intermediate range ballistic missile units to be based in England this year will be "sitting ducks" for Russian missiles.

But the rush to get the Thor operational and integrated into the "retaliatory system" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries makes it essential to take the gamble on their being expendable.

However, criticism and Red demonstrations in England over establishing Thor bases, plus the urgency to put them in additional NATO countries, bring to a head a growing dispute over the proper tactical use of IRBMs.

The controversy concerns how much mobility must be built into IRBM units to make them more difficult for the enemy to hit. It's easy for Russia to zero in on fixed bases. And the first Thors to be put in England will be fixed to massive concrete installations.

Many NATO intelligence experts, including the AF men who say that the first Thors will be sitting ducks, claim the Reds will have their own missiles aimed at these sites almost as soon as ground for them is broken.

Defenders of the fixed base concept say, however, that Red missiles are not accurate enough to destroy all Thor units with the initial salvos. They claim that there will be adequate time to retaliate effectively with the Thor missiles.

They also say that the tremendous additional cost of making Thor units completely mobile, or even partially mobile, is not worth the limited advantage which would be gained.

For example, fuel tank trucks with high-pressure, high-speed pumping equipment have been designed to prepare a Thor for firing in a few minutes. These trucks would be part of the elaborate equipment which would have to accompany a mobile Thor unit. But they are extremely expensive compared to the fixed-position, high-speed pumping systems.

An alternative to the completely fixed-position base is the plan to establish numerous "partial-bases" over a wide area. This would permit moving the missile and a minimum amount of the ground support equipment from place to place to confuse the enemy.

Critics of this idea say that any movement of a Thor unit would be so ponderous and obvious, enemy intelligence could follow it easily. Many of these same critics insist that only an IRBM with a solid fuel, such as the Navy's Polaris which is now under development, will be a really worthwhile, fully mobile weapon.

Work is being rushed on a second-generation of solid propellant IRBMs by the Air Force. But the NATO strategists have decided that any IRBM which works must serve as an interim defense measure.

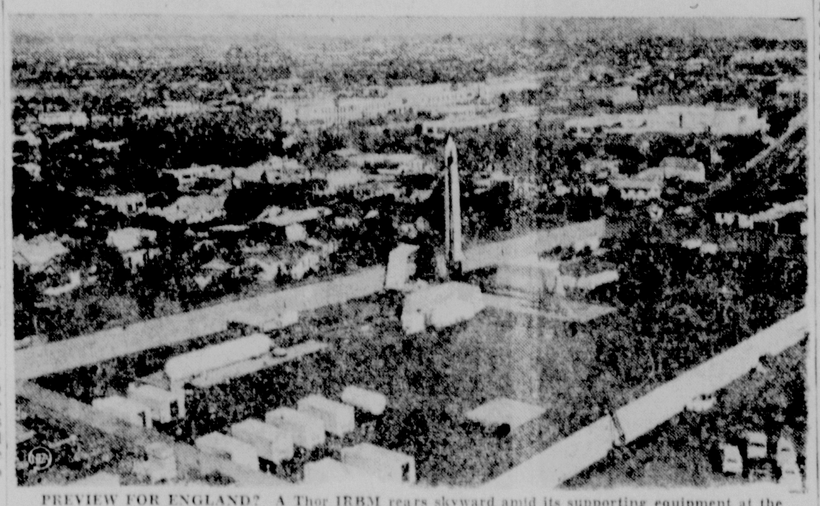

The British Thor crews will be trained at the Douglas Aircraft plant and at Cooke AF Base in California and finally at Cape Canaveral in Florida.

They will be checked out in the use of this missile as a fully mobile weapon as well as a fixed-base weapon. Smaller, more mobile bases have been designed and built for putting Thor into the field, although the first ones in England will be at fixed bases.

The Douglas company and the Air Force have developed the Thor with the goal of being able to put it into operational use as soon as the development work on it was successfully completed. This includes such things as writing the training manuals and designing and building the ground-support equipment simultaneously with the research and development of the missile.

The U. S. Army did not do this in developing its Jupiter IRBM, which is why the Air Force says it is only planning to stage the Thor in England. Jupiters are being made in production quantities in Detroit by Chrysler. But there has been no decision made on where they will be deployed for use against an enemy.

"THE GLASS MENAGERIE"

Tom Stubblefield and Martha Thomason are pictured in a scene from the Illinois College Tilltop Players "The Glass Menagerie," by Tennessee Williams. The play will be presented Friday and Saturday, March 14 and 15, at 8 p.m. in Jones Chapel on the College campus. The public is cordially invited. Tickets are available at Lane's Book Store and the Student Union on I.C. campus.

In choosing this play director Lee Morgan brings to the Jones Chapel stage one of the outstanding dramas of the American Theatre. Tennessee Williams, born in Mississippi, moved at a young age to St. Louis. During his younger years the sensitive Williams absorbed much that made up the culture of those of the lower class of St. Louis. From this setting comes the tender, yet powerful "Glass Menagerie." This play was Williams' first big success and was to be followed by such works as "A Streetcar Named Desire," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Baby Doll," "Orpheus Descending," "Summer and Smoke" and most recently "Garden District."

The work of Williams has been done once before on the I.C. campus when five years ago the Hilltoppers presented "Summer and Smoke." "Glass Menagerie" differs greatly from "Summer and Smoke" and for that matter from everything else that Williams has done to date. In "Glass Menagerie" Williams is tender. The tragedy and realism are there but as it is in life they are viewed through a softening of illusion.

As Amanda, the ever-reminiscing mother who still talks of all her "old" beaux, director Morgan has cast Mrs. Corrine Griefe. Martha Thomason, who earlier this season was seen as Mouche in "Love of Seven Dolls," plays the young, self-conscious daughter of Amanda.

Tom Stubblefield enacts the gentleman caller who is brought home to the bashful Laura. All are from Jacksonville. Dick Buehler of Centralia plays the brother Tom, who supports the family by working day in and day out at Continental Shoe Makers.

PRESENTS RECITAL TODAY

A program of French organ music will be presented Sunday afternoon, March 9, at 4 o'clock by Robert Glasgow, Assistant Professor of Organ and Theory at MacMurray College.

The public is invited to attend the program, which is the second in a series of three faculty recitals, presented by Mr. Glasgow. It will be held in Annie Merner Chapel.

French baroque, romantic and contemporary selections will be presented by the MacMurray professor on the four-manual, 3509-pipe Aeolian-Skinner organ in Merner chapel.

Completed in 1952, with assistance by Mr. Glasgow, this organ is considered one of the finest in America. A gift of the MacMurray Alumnae Association, the organ is ideally suited not only to the French literature, but to all fine organ music.

Mr. Glasgow, who received his bachelor's and master's degrees in music at the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, will begin his program with a composition by Louis Nicolas Clerambault, a 17th and 18th century French composer.

Romantic selections will next be played, including works of Cesar Francke, Louis Vierne and Charles Widor. Concluding the program will be contemporary works by 20th century French composers Paul de Maleingreau and Jehan Alain.

The Well Rounded Square

RECOMMENDED

Home From The Hill
By William Humphrey.
Knopf. $3.95

Captain Wade Hunnicutt told his son What Every Young Man Should Know about hunting: how to outwit the curious squirrel, sense the direction a covey of quail will flush, and how to stalk and kill the wild boar; instilled into him a love for hounds, and for the care of fine guns; he taught him woodmanship, and how to find his way out of a swamp; but being a fool and a failure as a father, he neglected to teach him how to cope with a suicidal impulse not to find his way out of a swamp. And so we have tragedy.

Almost every animal that is a target for a man's guns teaches its young what it means to be hunted; but man, the most hunted and haunted of all, teaches only to hunt. The great wonder is that there aren't more tragedies.

The novel begins: "Early one morning last September the men squatting on the northeast corner of the town square looked up from their whittling to see, already halfway down the west side and passing under the shadow of the Confederate monument, a dusty long black hearse with a Dallas County license plate."

The mood is set. The men of the East Texas town move over in a body as curious and as quiet as squirrels and discover that it is a Rolls Royce hearse. Immediately the mood is heightened: the event made important. And soon the men learn " . . . that Mrs. Hannah had come home to stay. The only other one of those three crazy tombstones that ever would was now to get its body laid beneath it, and the Hunnicutts (or rather, all the Hunnicutts who could be publicly acknowledged) had passed into story."

This dark tale is Mr. Humphrey's first novel, now in its fourth printing and sold to Hollywood. Done well it will make a picture that will have you sitting on the back of your neck right down to the fadeout.

For Mr. Humphrey unfolds his story with a masterful hand, holding us up so that we are in suspense; letting us see through a chink in the armor of a character so that we know in a general way where we are heading; rounding his people by flashing their ever-shifting thoughts to us in passage of insight and probing; describing a hunt, a barbecue and a young love scene with equal felicity; and above all shaping his chronicle into that form which in Galsworthy's phrase all dramas must have—a spire of meaning.

In fact, the author's style would easily accommodate a story of more grandeur, more nobility than his people provide; and it is this lack of majesty and greatness in them as they move across his tapestry of words that measures out the moral.

The Hunnicutts were their county's First Family, rich, handsome, with everything to live for; yet as a family they failed tragically.

Each reached a latitude of living consciousness at some age and thereafter never changed, never grew, never enlarged their visions or their concepts of values, as if in truth they were women into the tapestry of life and only appeared to be moving with the procession of days.

Each lived with his symbol selfishly: the wronged wife; the arrogant man of position; the shielded, innocent son.

There was never a moment of unabridged communication among them, and I am not forgetting the lessons in the woods, for there the boy learned only half the facts: the Captain was a man's man it is true, but also he was a ladies' man and he never imparted to his son a hint of the truth of life which might have opened the eyes of the boy when he was young (which is when eyes are meant to be opened).

And when finally his eyes saw the sins of the fathers in the antecedent incidents of his fate he was too far into the woods to halt.

—LeTissier.

Home Bureau Activities

The February meeting of the Jersey College Home Bureau unit was held at the home of Mrs. Russel Hymes. Miss Hazel Graves, home advisor, gave a very interesting major lesson, "Your Emotions and Your Health." There was quite a bit of discussion both during and after the lesson.

During the business session the health chairman, Mrs. Ralph Ginder, presented an article on "Hypertension." Mrs. Hymes displayed two wooden trays she painted at a special craft lesson, and described the method.

Again this year, all members have a perfect record of attendance. Each one answered roll call by naming one of their family's favorite one dish meals. After this, Mrs. Hymes gave the minor lesson, "One Dish Meals or Casserole Dishes." Several recipes were given in this. She prepared Five Decker Dinner, Tuna Fish Scallop, Savory Chicken Casserole, and Spanish Rice. These were served buffet style along with hot, buttered bread, assorted pickles and coffee.

Mrs. Robert Daniel had the recreation for the afternoon.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 11, at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ralph Ginder.

Britisher Displays Dolls At Travel Show

A personable Britisher arrived yesterday in Jacksonville with a troupe of "Guys and Rolls" to help boost the tourist attractions of his country.

The visitor is A. P. Spooner, midwestern manager of the British Travel Association.

His colorful retinue which will be on display this afternoon at the Travel Show at the Dunlap hotel is actually a collection of 15 inch-high dolls representing figures familiar to those who visit Britain—A Warder of the Tower of London, the Lord Mayor's coachman, a Welch girl, a Highlander and a Morris dancer.

The Yeomen Warders, Mr. Spooner explained, are members of the oldest armed body in the world. Originally they were the sovereign's personal guard but their duties now are purely ceremonial. Each year these men describe the wonders of the Tower of London and the Crown Jewels, which are kept in the fortress, to more than a million people, including a large number from the United States.

A special reason for including the Welsh girl, he said, was to point up the Festival of Wales, which will be one of the highlights of the 1958 season in Britain. A nationwide celebration featuring a multitude of individual events, the festival will run from May through October. Among the sports attractions will be the British Empire and Commonwealth Games, to be held for the first time in Wales.

"Morris dancers and Highlanders in full dress can be seen on special occasions," the travel expert explained, "and the Lord Mayor's coachman takes part in a seven-century-old ceremony in London each November. They all add to the color and pageantry awaiting the visitor to Britain."

Mr. Spooner maintains offices at 39 South LaSalle street, Chicago.

Mrs. Applebee Tells B.P.W.C. About Trip

The members of B & P W Club had a rare treat in store for them when Miss Blanche Spall, chairman of Career Advancement Committee, introduced Mrs. Alice Applebee at the meeting of the club March 6 at Hotel Dunlap.

Mrs. Applebee told of her trip around the world taken with Mr. Applebee this past summer. One of the important things mentioned was not one sign of Anti-Americanism appeared.

The first stop was Honolulu where the speaker visited churches. There was a very modern M. E. church for people of Japanese descent. For a while this church served lunch to the service men only but now every one at the service is included. In the Fiji church harmony reigned. The prayer is in two languages, while the sermon is in English.

On to New Zealand and Australia where they found beautiful country, grazing pastures rotated for cattle and sheep, and many buildings of interest.

From here they went on to Singapore, where the people were celebrating their tenth year of freedom from England. Parades were featured for several days. The elephant is a very prominent animal in this city.

Bangkok - Beirut

Bangkok and Beirut were the next on the list. Mrs. Applebee enjoyed the shops and parks, while her husband went to see the president's palace. The party managed to get by the front guards—going up the front walk and encountered more guards, who told them the president was away on vacation. The guards took them inside where they found a beautiful piano. One of the girls in the party was playing when the president walked in. He seemed quite pleased to see and meet the Americans.

At Athens, Greece and Belgrade, Yugoslavia they found many beautiful places. Stuttgart, Germany was the next stop, where Mr. Applebee attended a Savings and Loan Convention.

In Switzerland they visited their granddaughter, Betsy Applebee, who is attending school there.

The Jacksonville couple report very interesting guides everywhere and train travel the most democratic way of travel.

At the close of Mrs. Applebee's talk, Mr. Applebee showed slides.

Miss Lena Hopper introduced the soloist, Miss Laura Smith, MacMurray senior, who sang: "Shadows of Twilight," "Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," "Time of Parting," and "Old Mother Hubbard." She was accompanied by Miss Josephine Krussel, also a student at MacMurray.

The following guests were introduced: Dr. Elsa Kimbel, Mrs. J. N. Conover, Mary Bentino, and Dr. Applebee.

Miss Thelma Bacon, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee announced Lee Sullivan Jr., will be the speaker at the next meeting.

PERFECTLY LOGICAL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—One of Miss Betty Benson's grade school pupils asked how to spell a word that he pronounced "sex."

Miss Benson was surprised but complied. Later she looked at the story the boy had written and saw that it concluded: "I like turtles and in-sex." She explained to the young author how to spell "insects," but he thought the advice was needless. "I already knew how to spell "in,' he told her, "I asked you how to spell 'sects.' "

CHICAGO (AP)—With a broad local packer demand, butcher hog prices fluctuated this week in line with the volume offerings.

The decline in prices during the early part of the week was at last partly recovered with the small receipts on Thursday. No. 1 grade was acutely scarce in the 200-230 lb range and offerings over 240 lbs were smaller than during the previous week. Receipts largely were 2 and 3 grades at 200-250 lbs.

Only minor changes were reported in the wholesale pork market during the week.

The supply of slaughter steers increased slightly over last week with Monday's offerings the smallest for the day since November, but Wednesday's run was the largest in almost two months. The week's supply was about 65 per cent slaughter steers, compared with 60 per cent for the previous week.

For the week, slaughter steer prices were strong to $1 higher than at the close last week, making it the fifth consecutive week of gains. Choice grades comprised about 45 per cent of the week's run and the good grade about 40 per cent.

The salable receipts of slaughter lambs for the week were almost 10 per cent less than last week with wooled offerings comprising the bulk of the run. Prime grades were absent but there were more consignments of lambs averaging over 110 lbs than for any week this year and buyers showed more resistance to them.

GRAIN PRICES BEST GAINS IN SEVERAL WEEKS

CHICAGO (AP)—There was a good deal of talk among grain traders this week about why futures prices would have to do down, but they didn't. On the contrary, prices scored the best advances generally in several weeks.

Every day except one the gains were fairly general, sometime slight, sometimes moderate, but gains nonetheless despite economic factors which many traders said made them unlikely, if not impossible.

But the probability that the Senate Agriculture Committee would extend 1957 farm price supports to the 1958 crops somehow could not be side-tracked and enough traders viewed it as a bullish influence along with some others to maintain buying and an upward price trend.

Even as the committee announced it had voted approval of bills extending the 1957 supports, many dealers still were of the opinion that the action really didn't matter; that the bills can't be enacted anyhow. And it was on that day that the market suffered its most general setback of the week.

The bills have one strongly bearish provision, some traders said. It is the one which in addition to extending the support prices adds about 16 million acres to government corn allotments.

At the close of the week, wheat was 2¼-3½ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, corn was 1⅛-2⅝ higher, oats 1⅜-3¾ higher, rye 2¾ - 5½ higher, soybeans 3⅛ - 3⅞ higher, and lard 5 cents a hundred pounds lower to 15 cents higher.

The December deliveries of wheat, corn, oats and rye and November soybeans all hit new highs for the season.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week made its third best advance of the year as talk about the recession and how to beat it reached a crescendo.

An estimated 4¼ billion dollars was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the Associated Press Average.

The AP 60 - stock average jumped $3.40 to $162.60, bringing it within hailing distance of the Feb. 4 recovery high.

The market's rise broke a string of three straight weekly declines and lent hope to some Wall Street sentimentalists that a taditional spring rally is possible. A rise in stock prices has accompanied the rising sap in many a springtime but the outlook so far is glum for business and the economy this spring.

The outstanding piece of financial news during the week was another cut in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board — the third since November. The announcement of this new credit-easing move came after the market close on Thursday. During the session that day however, there were strong rumors that something of the sort was in the wind.

Some observers, showing wisdom after the event, ascribed a great deal of the big Thursday advance to this rumor. But with the news out and stocks still being traded on the Pacific Coast there was little response in the prices of these stocks.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Royal Dutch, up 2⅝ at 41 on 205,900 shares; Shell Transport & Trading, up 1⅛ at 18⅝; U.S. Steel, up 2¼ at 61⅛; Bethlehem Steel, up ⅞ at 40; and General Motors, up 1¼ at 35¼.

RUSSIA MANEUVERS TO FORCE U.S. ACCEPTANCE

lyze the situation, here are the main Soviet aims in a summit conference:

1. They want the West to ratify their gains in Eastern Europe, going back to the still unrecognized absorption of the Baltic states early in World War II. They evidently wants some kind of pact or agreement not to raise the issue of Communist domination of such countries as East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Romania, and Bulgaria.

One Bulganin proposition calls for an East-West nonaggression pact, apparently meaningless except as a Western gesture of acceptance of the political lineup in Eastern Europe.

2. They would block the installation of nuclear missiles bases in NATO Europe by creating a political atmosphere which, they hope, would make it impossible for the allied governments to go ahead with present plans.

3. They would make Western defense systems less effective by banning nuclear weapons without agreeing to the kind of elaborate inspection and policing procedure which Western officials consider essential.

4. They seek recognition for a Soviet role in the Middle East without, in the Washington view, being willing to give up the devices of political agitation and subversion by which they have already expanded their influence there.

5. They aim eventually at breaking up the Western alliance and the U. S. system of foreign military bases. They would move toward neutralizing West Germany, beginning with a denuclearized central European zone which would deny Germany the weapons of other NATO partners. They seek to split the United States and its European allies by working for direct negotiations between Washington and Moscow on issues such as disarmament which involve the interest of all the allied powers.

On the other hand, the U. S. aims for a summit conference are evidently these:

1. To press the Soviet government to modify political controls over Eastern Europe so the countries there may have increasing independence. Along with this, to achieve the gradual roll back of Soviet military power to the borders of the Soviet Union.

2. To plug for the reunification of Germany under conditions which would assure the eventual triumph of Western democracy, which now exists in West Germany, rather than the preservation and possible expansion of communism as in East Germany. Furthermore, the Western governments appear determined to avoid any move toward a neutralized Germany.

3. To demonstrate to the world that it is Soviet communism and not the belligerence of the Western allies, as Russia charges, that is perpetrating the cold war and keeping the world in a state of fear.

4. To try to get serious negotiations started again on disarmament—but a disarmament program which would be safeguarded at every step by inspection to minimize the danger of Soviet violations.

U. S. officials figure there is a lot more bargaining to be done before anyone can say whether there actually will be a summit conference. They still hold to the view that a conference probably will be arranged eventually and that it will deal mostly with disarmament and marginal political issues.

PREPARE TO MOVE U.S. WORKERS OUT OF CENTRAL SUMATRA

charging that the central government was corrupt and influenced by Communists. They demanded that the rich outer islands be given a fairer return from Jakarta for their resources.

Government planes have bombed rebel communications on Sumatra. Premier Djuanda said recently the central government is through negotiating with the rebels.

The Indonesian Air Force Friday peremptorily drafted all civilian pilots and ground crews. This could mean a greater military effort by Jakarta. But it also could be an effort to keep pilots from going over to the side of the rebels, badly in need of planes and pilots.

AIKEN CLAIMS DROPPING BENSON WOULD BE A MISTAKE

Aiken said.

He added: "There are many more people employed in processing and handling farm products today than in producing them. They should all be for Benson and my mail indicates most housewives also approved of his policies."

The senator sharply criticized Benson for announcing last December that he would lower dairy supports April 1, start of a new milk marketing season.

"That was a notice to every dealer, processor and speculator to get rid of every pound of butter and cheese," Aiken said. "The result is that it probably must pile up in government hands."

"And even with widespread unemployment and persons on relief," he said, "there has not been a pound of butter made available from government stocks."

Plan Morgan Visiting Nurses Association

"This isn't the first time that Morgan County has been chosen as the proving ground for a Pilot project in the fields of health, welfare, and education," Mrs. Orville Foreman, acting chairman, told the group assembled at the American Legion home Friday noon for the consideration of plans to organize a Visiting Nurses Association of Morgan County, which would function in coordination with the Morgan County Health Department.

Mrs. Foreman, named acting chairman at an earlier meeting, presided at the business session which followed luncheon served by members of Unit No. 279, American Legion Auxiliary.

"Every one of us has probably had times in his own family when he wished such services as those offered by the Visiting Nurses Association were available," she said, in outlining the plan by which skilled nursing care and health guidance can be made available to the people of Morgan County in their own homes.

Mrs. Albyn Wolfe, chairman of the by-laws committee previously appointed by Mrs. Foreman, read the by-laws prepared by the committee which included Mrs. Foreman, Miss Anna Mann, Mrs. Andrew Harris and Dr. F. G. Norbury, all of Jacksonville; Mrs. J. C. Marshall of Murrayville, and Mrs. N. E. Kern of Alexander.

The proposed by-laws were discussed and, with a few amendments, were approved by the group.

Reverend George Clark, chairman of the finance committee, reported for his committee which also included Mrs. James Cash, Miss Miriam Russel, Mrs. Nelle Wandell, Mrs. Ralph Heaton, and Irwin Aufdenkamp. Dr. Clark reported on a number of conferences with local health organizations and a grant from the Morgan County Tuberculosis Association.

Reverend Harris Pankhurst, chairman of the nominating committee which included Mrs. Andrew Harris, Robert Fay, and Irwin Aufdenkamp, recommended that the six directors proposed by his committee be empowered to name the other 15 which would make up the board of 21 members.

Following Dr. Pankhurst's report, Mrs. Orville Foreman, Mrs. Albyn Wolfe and Reverend George Clarke, all of Jacksonville; Mrs. Irene Steinberg of Arenzville; Mrs. Norma Kern of Alexander; and Mrs. Charles Gibson of Franklin were elected to the board.

Dr. Vincent T. J. Lenth and Dr. James W. Chapman, members of the Public Relations committee of the Morgan County Medical Society, and nurses from the Morgan County Health Department were present to participate in the discussion of plans and policies for the new service.

Health organizations and other clubs or organizations interested in learning more about the services offered by the Visiting Nurses Association are invited to call the Morgan County Health Department for further information.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Carole Rose Menezes, who passed away four years ago today, March 9th, 1954.

We have shed many a tear
Through these long, long sad years.
A shock so great and then to part
Leaves us with a broken heart.
No last farewell, so short a call.
Through March we miss you most of all,
But God will surely lead the way
That we'll all meet again some day.

Ike Outlines Steps To Provide More Jobs

(D-Tex) to speed up projects which have been authorized and funded."

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said that President Eisenhower "now acknowledges we have a recession."

Benefits Proposal

The Eisenhower proposal to increase the duration of unemployment payments apparently would be financed wholly by federal funds, although details will not be spelled out until next week.

The President announced the Budget Bureau has just released 200 million dollars to the Federal National Mortgage Association to be used, among other things, to stimulate building of homes for "citizens of modest means."

Funds For Mortgages

FNMA makes funds available for homebuilding by buying up mortgages. It announced the 200 million would be used primarily for purchase of FHA-insured mortgages up to $10,000 on new homes.

"This new authority," said Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole, "therefore will stimulate home construction in that segment of the market where it will do the most good both in terms of housing need and of increased activity in the building and allied trades."

The Past President's club of the Woman's Relief Corp will meet with Mrs. Nora Wilder on Tuesday, March 11, for a potluck dinner. A business meeting will follow in the afternoon, and dues will be paid.

Illinois Clinches Big 10 Indoor Track Crown

Illini Rack Up 46.5 Points Through 13 Of 15 Events To Bag Title

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois completed a history-making comeback Saturday by winning the Big Ten indoor track and field championships after finishing last in 1957.

The sophomore-dominated Illini, returning to supremacy after their four-year sweep of the title ended in 1954, became the first school in 48 years to finish last one season and win it the next.

The brilliant team of veteran coach Leo Johnson captured four firsts and accounted for two of the five meet records shattered or equaled. The Illini, who also took three seconds and shared another, amassed 47½ points.

Ohio State was second with 39, followed by defending champion Indiana with 35, Purdue 21, Michigan State 19, Iowa 17, Minnesota 16½, Michigan 16, Wisconsin 11 and Northwestern 6.

Four records were erased and another matched. Michigan State's Dave Lean of Australia beat out Indiana's Harold Caffey by two feet to win the 600-yard run in 1:10.2. The old mark was 1:11.3 set by Kevan Gaspar of MSU in 1955. Lean was defending 440 yard champion but competed only in the 600.

Bob Henry of Minnesota, a 225-pound senior, heaved the shot 56 feet 5½ inches, compared to the 56-3¾ standard set by Michigan's Charles Fonville in 1948.

Sophomore Ernie Haisley of Illinois, an import from Jamaica, leaped over the high jump bar at 6 feet 8⅞ inches, erasing the 6-7½ in 1954 by teammate Ron Mitchell, who was second this time.

Illinois football scatback, Bob Mitchell, matched the :07.8 mark in the 70-yard low hurdles. Bob Wright of Ohio State in 1942 and Bill Porter of Northwestern in 1948 also share the record.

Ohio State's mile relay team of Richard Payne, Jack McLain, Ted Storer and Glenn Davis, sped the distance in 3:17.3 to wilt the former mark of 3:17.6 by Indiana in 1954.

Robertson's 1st Year May Bring Him Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati has scored more points at a faster clip than any other sophomore in the history of college basketball.

He also may win the country's individual scoring title, something no first-year varsity player ever accomplished.

Robertson has scored 869 points for an average of 34.76 each game. NCAA Service Bureau figures showed Saturday. The figures, complete through Friday, are records for a first-year player.

The Cincinnati sophomore has broken the 800-point record set by Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas last season. He also is ahead of the 29.7 average record set by Seattle's Elgin Baylor last year.

Robertson leads Baylor and Chamberlain for 1958 scoring honors. Baylor is second with 781 points and a 33.96 average while Chamberlain is third with 610 points, 30.5 average.

Other individual leaders are Ralph Crosthwaite, Western Kentucky field goal accuracy, .610; Arlen Clark, Oklahoma State, free throws, .875; Boo Ellis, Niagara, rebounding, .262 per cent of all rebounds in his games.

Team leaders include Marshall, scoring 88.0, and free throws, .790; San Francisco, defense, 49.7 points; Cincinnati, field goal accuracy .487; Seattle, rebounding, 596 of all rebounds in its games; Southern Methodist, fewest fouls, 11.6 per game; St. Joseph's, Philadelphia, most fouls, 23 per game.

Indiana Gets Balanced Scoring To Gain Loop Title From MSU, 75-72

By BOB VOGES

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Indiana surged to an early lead on perfectly balanced team scoring, fought off repeated Michigan State threats and won the conference basketball championship 75-72 in a near brawling Big Ten finale here Saturday afternoon.

State, trailing at one time by as much as 16 points, narrowed the Indiana lead to 63-62 with seven minutes to go but was never able to get ahead.

Bud Wilkinson assured the Hoosiers of their undisputed title when he dropped in two free throws to make the game 74-70 and added a third gift shot after State also made two free throws to account for the final score.

Indiana, completing the season with a 10-4 conference record, also will go to the Mideast regional NCAA basketball tourney at Lexington, Ky., next Friday.

Michigan State, which shared the title with Indiana last year, dropped to a second place tie with Purdue on a 9-5 conference mark.

Michigan State's John Green was high man for the afternoon with 23 points. Indiana's Archie Dees, top conference scorer who was jumping against Green, was held to 14 points, well below his 24-point average. Wilkinson, last minute hero for the Hoosiers, was high for his team with 17.

Michigan Quells Iowa Uprising For 95-92 Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan fought off a determined Iowa team and took a 95-92 Big Ten basketball victory here Saturday night.

Michigan lost a 55-34 halftime lead and had to fight an Iowa threat in the last five minutes to win.

The accuracy of Jack Lewis at the free throw line kept Michigan ahead in the waning minutes. Lewis scored Michigan's last six points from the foul line and ended up with 22 points for the night, 12 on free throws.

Iowa's second half rally was led by 6-foot-8 Americus John Lewis with 13 points and Dave Gunther with 14. Gunther had 23 for the night as he took scoring honors.

George Lee and Pete Tillotson had 21 each for Michigan.

Canada Crushes U.S. Hockey Aggregation, 12-1

By JOHN FARROW

OSLO (AP)—Canada crushed the injury-riddled United States team 12-1 Saturday and needed only a final victory over dangerous Russia to capture the world amateur ice hockey championship.

Russia remained within striking distance of the title by edging the defending titleholder, Sweden, 4-3, on a late goal after the Swedes had twice fought back to knot the score.

The aggressive, body-checking Canadians, winners of six straight games, and the intense, machine-like Russians, once tied, clash in the climactic battle of the round robin tournament Sunday. The Canadians are favored.

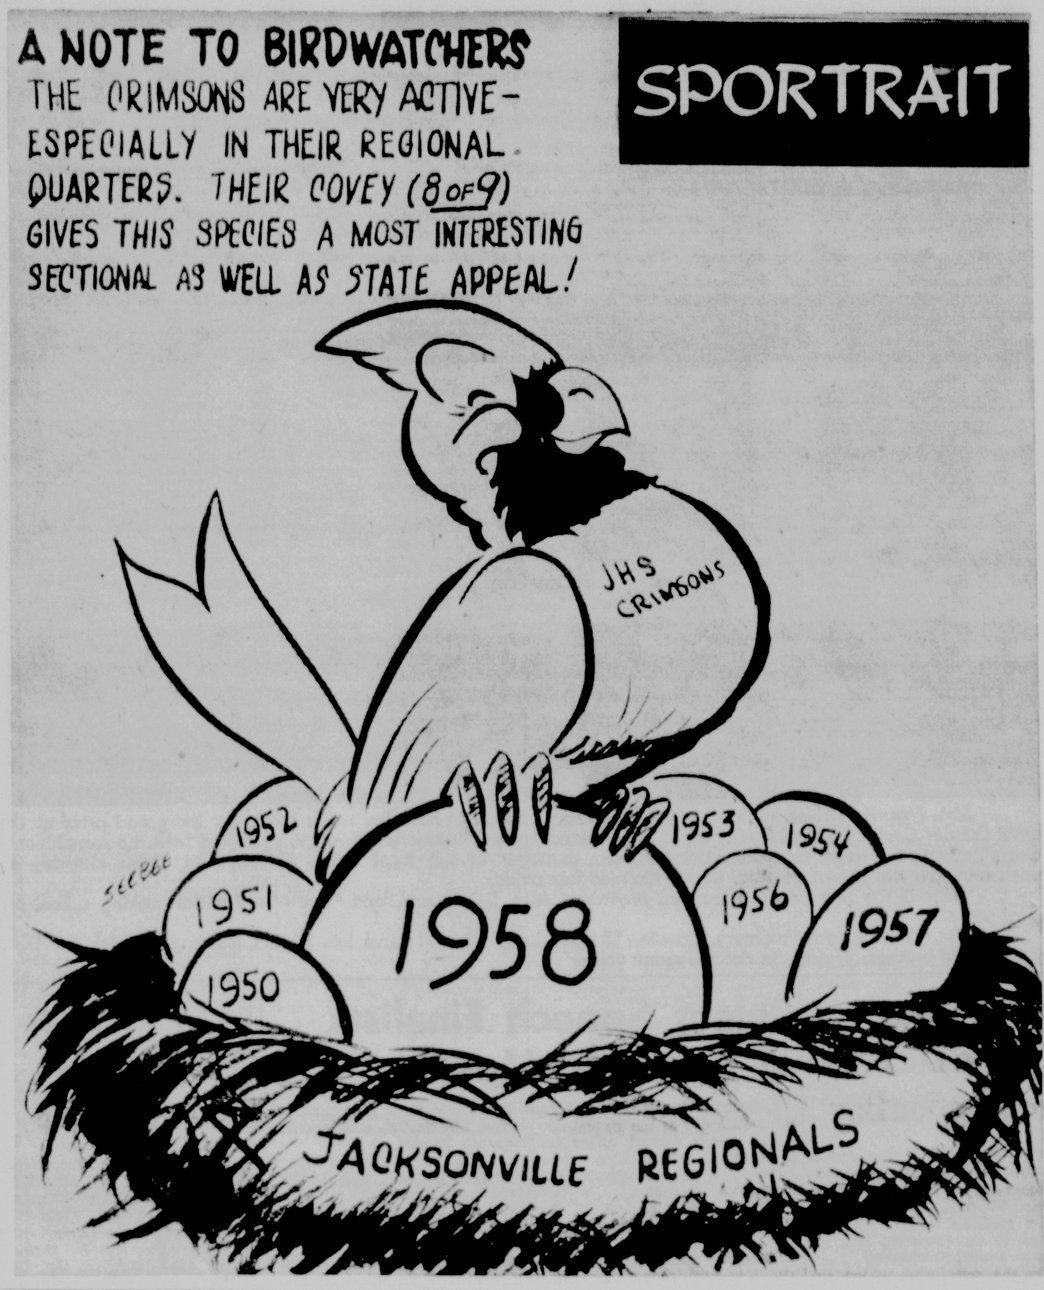

Employing the hard-driving tactics which have made the sport their national pastime, the Canadians have rolled up a total of 78 goals while holding the combined opposition to four. They lead the tournament with 12 points compared with 11 for the Russians, tied earlier by Czechoslovakia.

The Russians have scored 42 goals and given up 11, but the goals differential, used to determine the championship in the case of a tie in points will be of no importance Sunday. A victory or tie will clinch the championship for Canada. Russia must win the game to take the title.

Sensing the world crown, the Canadians showed no mercy to the already reeling Americans, who had four of their top men on the sidelines and who went into the fray with a squad of only 12 men.

Nadir could be termed the "crazy millionaire." That's the price owner Arthur Hancock has put on the head of his cantankerous 3-year-old colt.

Results of Friday night's Regional tournaments can be found on page 10 of the supplement.

Northwestern Trips Illini, 88-72, To End Up 4th In Conference

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern, a two-year tenant in the Big Ten cellar, bounced Illinois, 88-72, Saturday night to finish in a tie for fourth place as Joe Ruklick set a new Wildcat scoring record with 40 points.

Ruklick scored 20 points in each half and eclipsed the old school mark of 38 points set by Frank Ehmann against Michigan in 1955.

Ruklick hit on 17 of 26 field goal attempts and added 6 more free throws. His hot pace helped Northwestern establish a 46-35 halftime lead which Illinois never threatened.

The triumph gave the Wildcats an 8-6 record — their best showing in the Western Conference in 12 years — and helped them finish in a tie with Ohio State.

Northwestern finished with a 13-9 record and Illinois ended with a 5-9 conference mark and was 11-11 for the entire season.

PEARSON CAN RUN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators may have one of the fastest outfielders in the American League this season. Albie Pearson, obtained from Boston, was a star sprinter at El Monte High School in California in 1952. He ran 100 yards in 9.9, smashing the school record set by his father in 1932.

Only ten hitters batted .300 or better in the Southern Assn. in 1957. This was the lowest number to hit that figure since 1920. In 1921 the league had 30 players who hit .300.

Big 10 Modifies Part Of Financial Aid Program

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The Big Ten Saturday drafted conference football schedules from 1962 through 1964 and modified part of its financial aid to athletes plan.

This brought to an end three days of business sessions by conference officials.

Athletic directors completed the job of mapping the gridiron slates which include the innovation of three home conference games for each school. Heretofore, schools had a minimum of two such games if they desired.

Football schedules through 1961 already had been drawn.

Faculty representatives voted to modify the table of expected family contributions to college costs as used in determining the need factor of the aid program. The revision is effective only at the lower and moderate family income levels and lessens the expectation for parents' financial help.

"This effects all families with incomes below $6,000 annually," said assistant commissioner Bill Reed. "There now should be more boys eligible for full aid. For income below $6,000, between $150 and $270 less is being expected from family contributions. This change is estimated to cost each school $2,500 a year."

Financial aid is based on need as determined by financial statements filed by parents.

The formula for determining costs for athletes at each school was refined at the current meetings in a move for standardization of such costs.

Facultymen voted conditionally that any financial aid be terminated when an athlete becomes ineligible by professionalizing himself, such as contract signing or barnstorming for pay. As it stands now, an athlete still receives aid until the end of the school year if he professionalizes himself.

Adopted a permanent policy for choosing the conference basketball NCAA representative in case of a tie for the championship. In such case, the last team to go to the NCAA would be ineligible to repeat.

60 Downstate Teams Launch Sectional Play Wednesday Evening

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)— Top-ranking favorites for the Illinois high school basketball crown face a rocky road when 60 downstate teams plunge into sectional tournament contests opening Wednesday.

Rock Falls, currently No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, along with Herrin's defending champions, rated No. 3, and the fourth-ranked West Frankfort Red Birds are thrown into tightening competition which could continue the trail of upsets left by the regional tourneys.

The sectional winners, who will be chosen Friday night, advance with Chicago's public school champion, to eight supersectionals which will produce the field for the windup at Champaign March 21-22.

Rock Falls, one of seven ranking teams still in the running, resumes its bid in the Rockford sectional against East Rockford's powerful outfit, rated seventh and loser of only three of 24 contests.

The Rock Falls team has compiled a sparkling 28-1 record but East Rockford has encountered a tougher brand of basketball over most of the regular campaign. At one time during the season, East Rockford held the No. 1 rating.

The winner of the Rock Falls-East Rockford tilt will be favored over the victor in the lower bracket game between little Forreston, with a big 29-1 slate, and Freeport.

Herrin competes at Pinckneyville, where its first opponent is Tamms, another small school with a fancy 26-2 mark. Tamms is led by Charley Vaughn, who is continuing to add to his record-breaking performance as Illinois' highest prep scorer.

In the other bracket at Pinckneyville are the host school and Lincoln of East St. Louis, surprise conquerer of Belleville in regional activity. After a slow start, Pinckneyville has come along strong with 10 straight victories and poses a real threat for sectional honors.

West Frankfort rules the choice over Carrier Mills in the Harrisburg sectional but the big battle is likely to be with Mount Vernon, whose eighth-ranked Rams first have to overcome Metropolis. During the season, West Frankfort played three close games with Mount Vernon and won two of them.

Two more rated teams, Jacksonville and Canton, are lined up in hotly-contested sectionals.

Jacksonville steps into the fire right off the bat at Springfield against the host school, which has performed impressively in capturing the Big 12 Conference crown. Jacksonville has won 24 and lost 4 while Springfield is 21-8.

The lower bracket pairings send Lincoln against Mason City.

The Canton sectional offers the prospect of a third meeting between Canton and Peoria Spalding, each holding a victory over the other. Canton moves against Kewanee while Spalding seeks its third win of the season over Peoria Central.

At Geneseo, Moline's Maroons probably will be installed as the favorite on the basis of their elimination of fifth-ranked Rock Island in the regionals. Moline is matched against Alwood, winner of 30 games and the only unbeaten downstate entry, Fulton goes against Galesburg in the other contest.

In two Chicago suburban area sectionals, Elgin's Big Seven champions and Barrington loom as the top contenders at Arlington Heights while Thornton rates a slight edge over Wilmington, Chicago Heights and Bradley at the Harvey tournament.

At LaSalle, Ottawa's third-place 1957 winners draw the favorite's role over Fairbury, Tiskilwa and Toluca. The Ottawa club, with four regulars from last year, was a disappointment during the season but caught fire in the tournament eliminations.

Quincy's Blue Devils, drawing attention after their triumph over Notre Dame of Quincy, rank as the team to stop in their own sectional. The Blue Devils are carded against Bushnell, with the winner to meet either Warsaw or Mount Sterling.

Regarded as tossups are the tournaments at Aurora, Champaign, Decatur, Olney and Wood River.

At Aurora, the best records are held by DeKalb and York. At Champaign, Cissna Park with 24-5 and Rantoul with 22-7 head the list, and at Decatur the top marks are Shelbyville 23-6 and Arcola 25-2. Arcola's stock received a boost after the upset of Mattoon in regional action.

Highland takes a 22-4 slate into the Olney tourney while at Wood River, Edwardsville with 19-9 and Jerseyville with 25-3 lead in the record department.

What Do You Expect From the Starting Feeds You Buy?

Robert F. Deibel, Jr.
President, Dixie Mills Co.
East St. Louis, Illinois

Three years ago, we asked ourselves this question. What do farm folks expect from the starting feeds they buy? We all agreed that you want a quality feed, reasonably priced but, above all else, you want performance.

Whether it be chicks, pigs, or calves that you are starting, the importance of getting them off to a good, fast start during this most critical period of their life cannot be overestimated.

Performance Was The Answer

Performance was the answer . . . performance would be of vital interest to any feeder . . . performance would be the one thing wanted most by a feeder. Sure, a feeder is interested in the ingredients that make up a particular feed, the essential vitamins, anti-biotics, minerals and trace elements . . . but he is more interested in the end results produced by a feed . . . performance.

What Is Performance?

100% livability, fast growth, and low cost is purely and simply performance. Two years ago, Dixie created a "first" when we actually guaranteed the performance of our starting feeds. The reason was simple. We knew the top performance built into Dixie starting feeds and, since this is what you expect from the starting feeds you buy, we decided to guarantee you the results.

Performance Guaranteed Second Year in Row

Some claims were paid in 1956, the first year of our guarantee program. In 1957 we again improved our starting feeds and broadened our performance guarantee.

Now in 1958, Performance Is Guaranteed and Insured

Performance results for farm folks feeding Dixie starting feeds in 1957 were so satisfactory that this year one of the world's largest insurance companies is insuring our performance guarantee. Not only is the performance backed by Dixie but it is insured. This means you can feed any Dixie starting feed with still greater confidence, knowing you are getting the very things you expect from your starting feeds —100% livability, fast growth, and low cost.

Whether you are starting pigs, chicks or calves this year, start them on Dixie and get guaranteed and insured results.

We Dare You

If you raise livestock, you know that more animals, faster gains, higher milk production, improved breeding efficiency, lower feed costs and reduced livestock losses all help to bring in more income.

If you have grass-legume pastures, we dare each of you to follow to the letter the following pasture management tips, which should help in each of these ways to increase your income. This is really not a big dare. Each of these practices is reasonable and easy to follow.

1. Do not turn animals onto any pasture until the plants are at least six inches tall.
2. Avoid overgrazing at any time.
3. Divide the pasture into at least two parts, and graze alternately at intervals of three to four weeks.
4. Following the first grazing on each half, top-dress with at least 100 pounds of 48 per cent superphosphate and 100 pounds of potash.
5. Clip each pasture after you take the livestock off.
6. Unless you want to plow a pasture containing legumes, do not graze from the last week in September until November or until after the first hard frost.

Delayed Grazing Helps Plants

Delayed grazing in the spring will insure stronger pasture plants. Early spring growth comes almost entirely from root reserves. If plants are eaten off before they are large enough to make more food, they will recover slowly. Many will never recover.

Alternate grazing gives plants a chance to recover. Grazing animals naturally like the newest, tenderest growth and will eat selected areas and plants to death. Mowing not only controls weeds and sprouts, but also evens up the pasture plants. The animals will eat new growth from previously refused areas, and you won't have those patchy areas in the pasture that may not be eaten all summer long.

Plants Need Food, Too

Plants, like animals, must have enough food. Clovers will supply nitrogen. But on most soils, unless fertility is already high, you can expect a pleasing increase by using phosphate and potash fertilizer. We have suggested that you delay top-dressing until after the first grazing. This will help to keep legumes, the problem plants, in the mixture longer. Grasses are naturally more aggressive than legumes in the early spring. Top-dressing early will over-encourage grasses and keep clover growth down. You want to feed the clovers, not the grasses.

Legumes will be more Winter-hardy, develop better roots and live longer if you let them practice self-preservation. This function is called translocation or preparation for winter dormancy. The plants preserve themselves by moving food supplies into their roots. That is why we suggest that you avoid grazing during late September and during October.

Will you take the dare? We think you'll be wealthier if you follow these recommendations to the letter.

'Integration' Farm Festival Program Topic

URBANA — Integration in the livestock business is one of the "hot" topics on Illinois farms these days that will be taken apart and put together again during the Farm and Home Festival program on March 27-29.

Major emphasis during the Festival on the University of Illinois campus will be on exhibits and demonstrations of the work of the College of Agriculture. But two morning and two afternoon sessions in three locations each day will discuss current farm and home problems.

For instance, farmers may want to hear the latest research findings and current thinking from staff members on corn drying and storage problems, liquid versus dry fertilizers, minimum tillage, dwarf corn, farm policy, handling summer forage, raising hogs in confinement and getting started in farming.

For the ladies, such topics as easier work days, homes for town and country, the personality of your home, floral design, food demonstrations and getting and keeping the weight you want will be on the bill of fare.

These discussions are scheduled for 9:30 and 10:30 each morning and at 1 and 2 o'clock each afternoon, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the Festival.

Presentations will be put on in the auditoriums of Bevier Hall, the Animal Sciences Laboratory and the Veterinary Medicine building. Complete programs will be available at the registration desks for all Farm and Home Festival visitors.

Festival planners emphasize also that exhibits, demonstrations and discussion sessions during the three days are planned for everyone — city people, children and rural non-farm persons as well as Illinois farm families. Housing will be available for those who wish to stay more than one day.

The camel stores water inside his stomach, where there are several pouches holding five to six quarts.

A MODEL PLAN FOR 14 GARDEN VEGETABLES

Increase or Decrease Size of Garden and Kinds to Suit Space, Taste and Family Needs

Pick Garden Site Carefully

BY HENRY L. PREE
NEA Garden Editor

Vegetable gardening success depends upon more than enthusiasm and a dream of next autumn's harvest. A sunny location, better-than-average soil, a well-conceived plan, and lot of hard work are necessary.

The garden must be placed where it gets plenty of sunshine because it's the sun that makes the vegetables grow. To avoid competition from tree roots keep the garden beyond the spread of the branches, even though the tree casts no shade on your side. Since quick drainage is necessary do not garden in ground that remains wet for two or three days after a rain.

Vegetables grow best when soil conditions are favorable. Rich deep topsoil is ideal and almost as important as sunshine. Because you must make the most of what you have. The best soil is always on the top and unless the layer is at least four inches deep the vegetable plants will lack nourishment.

Agricultural Lime, at the rate of 5 to 7 pounds per 100 square feet of area, should be spread over and worked well into the soil. Lime furnishes calcium which is needed for root development and for formation of protoplasm and proteins. Commercial fertilizer with a 4-12-4, 5-10-5, 6-10-4 or similar analysis should be thoroughly mixed with the soil prior to planting or sowing of seed. Apply fertilizer at the rate of 2½ -3½ pounds per 100 square feet.

Never dig or plow or cultivate when the soil is too wet or too dry, since this will make the soil lumpy.

The beginner should plant his garden no larger than can be easily maintained and plant only the vegetables that his family likes best. Plan to grow a succession of crops. It is the only way to a steady supply of fresh vegetables.

Generally Speaking, the annual vegetables, listed in All-America Selections, are easier to grow and requires less attention than the perennials, such as asparagus and rhubarb.

A point to remember is that for many areas in the nation it is better to buy plants of cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, peppers, tomatoes, onions and okra, since the growing season in most areas is not long enough for these vegetables to mature from seeds sown outdoors.

Buy and sow your seeds with care, and remember that good seeds will give you more and healthier plants than cheap seeds. Do not hesitate over the relative quality of one reputable brand over another, as All-America Selections seeds are uniform in quality and handled only by the better distributors.

Grand Champion Barrow

Ronald J. Brown of Waverly took top honors at the fifth annual barrow show held at National Stockyards with his purebred Poland China. It placed first over a field of 43 purebred, crossbred and hybrid entrants.

Last year he also had the show's grand champion barrow. Shown at right is John McNay of the Woodson-Fennewald Commission company.

The Waverly high school freshman is the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Brown, rural route 1. He is a member of the Talkington 4-H club led by William Duewer and of the Waverly chapter, Future Farmers of America.

His brother, Rodney, 12, placed fourth with his pen of Poland China barrows.

In the individual barrow show 26 of the entries were graded No. 1; 15, No. 2, and 1, No. 3.

A barrow entered by John Beckett of White Hall placed eighth.

First 'Drill Box' Seed Oats Survey To Aid Program

URBANA — About 1,500 Illinois farmers will assist this spring with the first "drill box" survey ever made in the state.

W. O. Scott, University of Illinois agronomist, announces the survey will be made to find out exactly what kind of seed oats farmers are actually using. The survey is being carried out jointly between the University of Illinois department of agronomy and the Illinois Crop Improvement Association.

In 66 Counties

Farm advisers, crop improvement inspectors, agronomy department staff members and some vocational agriculture teachers will get three-pound oat samples directly from the field where farmers are planting. They will cover the major spring oat-growing area, which includes the 66 counties north of U.S. highway 40.

When the samples are collected, the surveyors will also find out what variety was planted, where seed was obtained, whether it was certified and, if cleaned or treated, how it was done. Then the samples will be sent to the Illinois Crop Improvement Association laboratory where each will be tested for germination and purity.

Will Aid Program

Scott says that with this information they hope to find out what kind and quality of seed farmers are using and how they can help to prevent losses if poor seed is used.

Surveys in other states have shown that many farmers have used poor quality seed. Definite facts about the seed Illinois farmers are using will help the department of agronomy and the crop improvement association plan a quality seed program.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

FARM INCOMES SHOW GREAT DIFFERENCES

What is ahead in farm income? Can and will Congress "pass a law" that will provide farmers with more satisfactory incomes? The first step in answering these questions is to try to get a better understanding of the present farm income situation.

The most important fact about farmers' incomes is that some farmers make very good incomes, while other farmers make very little. For example, in the five years ending with 1956, the average net income per farm (from farming) in West Virginia was under $1,200 a year, while that in Arizona was over $15,000 a year.

Probably few citizens of Illinois, or any other state, want to pay higher taxes or higher prices for food and clothing to boost the Arizona farmers into higher income brackets. On the other hand, no farm price support program, or direct payment scheme, will provide an up-to-date income for the West Virginia farmers so long as they stick to their small farms.

Of course, these two states represent the extremes of farm income. There are, however, very large differences among other states. There are also very large differences within states, including Illinois.

In 1956, 14 states had only one-fourth to one-half as much income per farm as Illinois. These states were scattered from Alabama to New Hampshire, and from Oklahoma to South Carolina.

Seven states had more net income per farm than Illinois. These states ranged from California to New Jersey, and from Florida to Montana. California had more than twice as much income as Illinois, and Arizona had four times as much.

In Illinois in the same year, one group of tenant farmers on good one-man, full-time farms made more than three times as much as other farmers on similar farms. Even greater differences in incomes are common in some other states.

Farm earnings in Illinois compare more favorably with wage rates than may be apparent at first thought. For example, average weekly earnings in factories producing durable goods are around $87 a week. For 50 weeks that would be $4,350 a year.

Out of this amount the factory worker will have to furnish his own house at a personal expense of around $1,200, while tenant farmers generally deduct most costs of housing on a farm business expense. Another disadvantage of the factory worker is that he cannot deduct any car expense from his taxable income even though he drives several miles each day to work, while farmers generally charge half their car costs as a business expense.

The farmer, of course, has capital invested in his business. However, interest on borrowed capital is deductible for income tax purposes. Furthermore, in many farm accounts the earnings of tenant farmers are shown as a labor and management wage, and interest on investment is charged as an expense whether or not the capital is borrowed.

So far we have been talking about farmers' incomes from farming. A very important fact is that farmers in many states receive more incomes from off-farm work than they do from farming. For the United States as a whole, this income from off the farm is equal to the net cash income of farm operators.

Hybrid Corn Labeled Top U.S. Ambassador To Yugoslav Farmers

URBANA — American hybrid corn is proving itself a top-notch goodwill ambassador in Yugoslavia.

This report comes from D. E. Alexander, University of Illinois corn breeder, who has just returned from a four-month assignment in Yugoslavia for the Food and Agricultural organization of the United Nations.

Alexander says hybrid corn development has been under way in Yugoslavia only since 1952. The foundation seed stock came from American agricultural experiment stations.

Yugoslav corn breeders have also developed some strains of their own that will withstand their cold spring climate and late summer drouth conditions. Some of their best hybrids of the future will be crosses between Yugoslav and American inbred lines.

The Yugoslavs appreciate American scientific progress in hybrid corn production. Alexander points out that five of the top seven corn breeders in that country have taken advanced training in the United States—all at the University of Illinois. In addition, several of their top agricultural research administrators have studied here.

Offer Their Lines

In appreciation for the American help they have received in hybrid corn development, the Yugoslav scientists have offered any of their hybrid lines to this country. Alexander says that some of their early-maturing strains might do very well in northern states.

Even though the Yugoslav farmers now average only 20 bushels of corn an acre, the government has set up a 60-bushel average goal. Alexander feels that this goal would not be impossible on many of their valley soils. He reports seeing one 220-acre seed field outside Belgrade that yielded 196 bushels an acre.

Because of its very recent introduction, hybrid corn makes up only about five per cent of the total acreage in Yugoslavia. Here in Illinois farmers plant practically 100 per cent hybrids. But the Yugoslav government is making every effort to expand hybrid corn use.

Big Prizes Offered

Special cash prizes have been established to induce higher yields from use of hybrid corn. On the large state and collective farms, a prize of one million dinars is offered for every 100-hectare field or larger that averages 70 quintals per hectare. In American units this would amount to about $1,600 for a yield of 120 bushels an acre. Prizes are also offered on the smaller privately owned farms.

Prizes must be divided so that 40 per cent goes to the farm workers, 10 per cent to the farm managers, 20 per cent to the agronomists and 30 per cent to the experiment station staff members who developed the hybrids.

Not an Easy Job

Getting all Yugoslav farmers to adopt hybrids will not be easy, Alexander reports. So far the amount of seed has been limited. But a much bigger obstacle is getting farmers to accept hybrids. He points out that in the United States the Agricultural Extension Service and the hybrid corn companies have made an ideal team to sell farmers on hybrids.

But the extension service is not so well organized in Yugoslavia and there are no commercial corn companies. Cost of hybrid seed and long-established customs will make the change-over there much slower.

Even today 90 per cent of all corn grown in Yugoslavia is planted on small private farms and only 10 per cent on the large state-owned or collective farms.

A Threatened Loss To The Community

The report issued this week by the Board of Directors of the Morgan County Red Cross chapter to the effect that the annual water safety program might have to be eliminated this year for lack of funds should give pause to everyone in the community.

This program of swimming instruction, conducted at the Nichols Park pool with the cooperation of the Y.M.C.A. and the Park Board, has met with outstanding success in prior years. Hundreds of boys and girls from the entire area look forward to participation in it. Thousands of young people who have taken swimming lessons under Red Cross instruction in the past look back upon their participation with satisfaction and a sense of accomplishment.

It would represent a great community setback to lose a program so valuable to youth.

The only answer is an immediate and widespread public response in the way of voluntary contributions to the local Red Cross. We share the hope that these will be forthcoming in generous amounts.

Risky Stand

Senator Knowland of California hasn't exactly taken himself out of the 1960 race for the Republican presidential nomination. But according to the rules of the political trade union, he's made it tough on himself. He has declared that he likes the man who would be his chief opponent.

As a matter of fact he went further and said he would support Vice President Nixon if he decides not to put in his own bid.

This doesn't leave much time for the senator to develop the necessary full set of prejudices and hostile attitudes should he find himself in a knock-down struggle with Nixon for convention delegates in 1960.

It almost sounds as if Knowland, now seeking the California governorship and voicing his expectation of serving at least a full four-year term in that job if he wins it, had made up his mind to wait until 1964 to try for the bigger prize.

For he must know better than anyone that his kind remarks about Nixon will be tossed at his head like Herb Score's fast ball if he turns critical a year or two hence.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Several commentators have opined that Dody Goodman, the wry-faced comedienne, has been getting a bum deal on the Jack Paar Tonight show. Dody agrees.

Vermillion-tressed Dody was here this week on her first visit to Hollywood to guest on the Eddie Fisher Show. I nabbed her for an explanation of what has been happening between her and Paar.

"I don't know," she said blankly. "I really don't know."

She explained that she started with the show shortly after Paar took it over. She was on five nights a week.

"We were doing very well together; everybody said so," she remarked. "Then I was put on four nights a week, then three and two and now it's only one. I never was told why."

"I still have the greatest respect for Jack as a performer," she remarked. "I think he could do better in his relations with the people who work with him."

IV. WHAT TO DO WITH CRITICISM

II Samuel 16:13, "So David and his men went on the road; and Shimei went along on the hillside opposite him and cursed as he went, and threw stones at him and flung dust."

How often we hear someone saying, "I'm completely fed up with it! I can't take it any longer." Or, "They can't do this to me."

Criticism is often hard to take, especially if it is the mean, petty sniping and fault-finding that is wholly unjust and unmerited. Men in public life know what it is to get cowardly anonymous letters. There is the kind of small persecution that goes on constantly in social and business circles today, whereby a person who is sincere in his religious faith is hounded to death by people who want him to take a drink, or compromise his sex standards, or play fast and loose with the Biblical ideals of work and honesty. It takes some courage to stand up to this. It often requires more real Christian faith to be loyal to God in these irritating circumstances than it does to give one's life in martyrdom.

There is a remarkable story in the 16th chapter of II Samuel in the Old Testament regarding the way King David met a situation of criticism. One day during one of the most discouraging periods in his life, when his own son Absalom was in revolt against him, David was walking along a certain trail with some of his officers and chief men. Suddenly there appeared on the ridge above them a man of the family of the house of Saul, whom David had already defeated. This embittered man, whose name was Shimei, walked along the ridge above David, cursing him, throwing stones, and casting dust both at David and his staff members. One of his generals, whose name was Abishai, said, "Why should this dead dog curse my lord the king? Let me go over, I pray thee, and take off his head." But David replied, "Let him alone, and let him curse, for the Lord hath bidden him." David went on to say that the man throwing dust and pebbles at him had been sent of God to humble him, and teach him a lesson. For if even David's own son, Absalom, had turned against his father, might it not be that God would visit David with some good through this humbling experience at the hands of Shimei? So he disregarded the man, went on, and was refreshed when they arrived at the river Jordan. David here demonstrated his real greatness of soul, which disregarded mean little attacks upon him, and went on to do the work that God had assigned him.

It may be that someone is walking on the ridges of life over against you, belittling you and humiliating you. How to meet such a situation, and come out of it a finer and better person the way David did, is one of the biggest tests of life. You can be victorious if you remember what Jesus said about such situations. He said when people bothered us in this way we were to love them, bless them, do them good, and pray for them. "But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you." This is the greatest test of the Christian life. But if we follow Jesus' counsel in persecution, and do these four things: love, bless, do good and pray, it may surprise us how our opponents will change their attitude.

I once knew a man who worked in a power house, who had great nobility of character. Some of his fellow workmen on the job used to needle him about his temperate habits and Christian ways. He never let it get under his skin. He kept an even keel and treated them all as friends. After he died, one of the men who had been the most persistent in these little persecutions came to my friend's widow and said, "I just want you to know I have become a Christian because of Al's example. I knew all the time he was right and we were wrong." What greater victory could there be than that? This can be your victory, too, if you remember the words of Jesus, "Blessed are they that are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

PRAYER: "Help us, O God, when the going is hard. May we never become bitter. Give to us rather the mind of Christ—his love, his patience, his compassion—remembering that before we loved him, he first loved us and gave his life for us. In his name and in his spirit we pray." Amen."

Next: What to do with happiness.

Matter of FACT

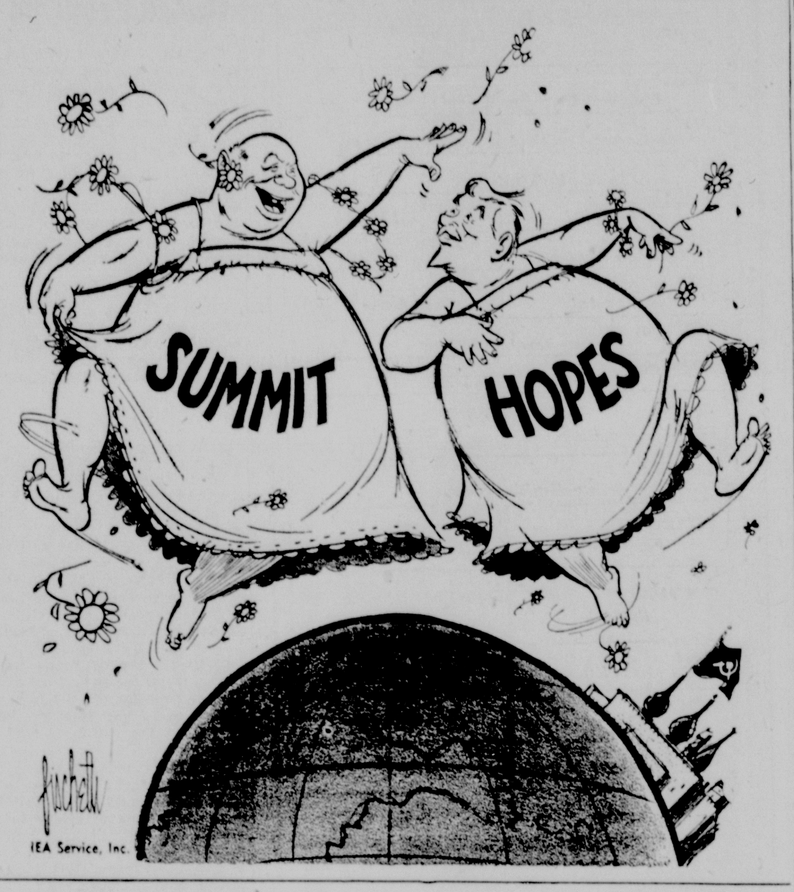

The modern process for making margarine dates from the work of the French scientist Hippolyte Mege-Mouriez in 1870. He called the product "oleomargarine" because he used in it oleo oils—oils of buttery consistency derived from beef tallow. Vegetable oils have replaced animal fats in modern margarine.

Turkish Pinkish—Replies—Tigakeet—Endorsement—Filling In—Grandpa

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN AND JERRY BENNETT

NEA Staff Correspondents

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Other Saturday afternoon the Turkish embassy had an exhibit of paintings done by local artists based on their impressions of Turkey, without having been there. Here are the running comments of one of the contributing artists on her own impressionistic picture:

"You know, I've always thought of Turkey as sort of pinkish, but the morning I started I was in a black mood so I decided to use those purplish highlights which look like clouds but aren't . . . oh, hello, darling, divinely dry champagne. . . oh, yes, those boxy things near the center . . . I wanted something pinkish so I compromised with those yellowish smears . . . isn't that Altemur Kilic a dear . . . but those grayish whirls kind of faced off into the murk made the mood core . . . and the next one I do on Turkey will be pinkish.

FAMED FATHER of the atomic submarine, Adm. Hyman Rickover, has been deluged with letters protesting his recent speech in which he criticized U.S. schools for teaching frills instead of basic education. He pulled one out of the pile near his desk. It was from an irate teen-ager saying in part:

"I am not riting this letter so as to alter your illeterate opinion . . . but wou did not make a very intelligent statement about teenagers . . ."

Another one was from a protesting schoolteacher and reads in part:

"What right do you have to tell education what they should do . . . do you tell a doctor how he is to operate on a patient?"

TWO SCIENTIFIC TYPES were talking at an embassy party recently.

"I've been cross-breeding different animals for years and believe it or not I've finally successfully crossed a parakeet with a tiger."

"That's stupendous. What does the result look like?"

"That's a little hard to answer, but take my word for it. When it speaks, you'd better listen."

BASEBALL PLAYER Stan "The Man" Musial, from the St. Louis Cardinals, was one of the many notables asked to attend the big powwow here to muster support for the larger foreign aid program for the U.S.

"What's your feeling about this foreign aid thing?" someone asked Musial.

"I really don't know much about it," Musial replied, "but I do know that somebody's got to start cutting these taxes soon."

At the same affair, the toastmaster handed a sheet of recommended comments for the important persons he was going to introduce. Behind the name of local socialite Mrs. Merriweather Post was the suggestion:

"Please say that she is well known for her anonymous charities."

WASHINGTON'S debutante consultant, Mary Stuart Price, was shocked at a big society party to learn that her photographer's camera had broken down right in the middle of an important picture-taking session.

When it looked like Mary would have to announce the trouble to the crowd of waiting debs, diplomats and government brass, dashing Dominican Republic Military Attache Col. Fernando Castillo popped up holding a small flash camera.

He explained that he was an amateur camera bug and would be happy to act as Mary's personal photographer for the rest of the evening. It's reported that the pictures turned out so well that hostesses now insist Castillo bring his camera to every party he comes to.

WHEN FORMER PRESIDENT Harry Truman was in town the other day, his secretary of state, Dean Acheson, asked him how he was getting along with his son-in-law, newsman Clifton Daniel.

"That boy's a real politician," Mr. Truman replied. "When he was courting Margaret, and for some time later, he called me 'Mr. President.' Then for a time after I left the White House he didn't call me anything. But now he calls me 'grandpa.'"

AT THE ELABORATE Guatemalan embassy for visiting President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, staff members were dumbfounded to learn the guest of honor is an absolute teetotaler who drinks nothing but milk.

They had stockpiled 10 cases of imported French champagne and an equal number of cartons loaded with expensive Scotch and bourbon for the reception. But a thorough search of the embassy failed to turn up even a half pint of the president's favorite drink.

Ydigoras finally put everyone at ease when he consented to break a personal tradition for the first time in 20 years. He drank half a coke.

Manners Make Friends

"I never write letters" explained the woman who hadn't bothered to write a thank-you note for a favor done her. She did, however, manage to write the letter requesting the favor. That's the way with most people who claim they never write letters.

They mean they only write them when they want something.

Make Your Husband Feel Like VIP Around Home

Make your man feel like the head of the family if you want him to go through life convinced he married the right woman.

A lot of my happily married men readers took the trouble to reply to a recent column of mine in which I asked the men to list the qualities that make a woman a good wife.

No matter how they sang the praises of their wives, the letters all made one point quite clear: The woman who treats a man like the head of the house, instead of like Mama's little helper, or like an adversary to be outsmarted, has the secret of making him feel that his home is his castle and his wife is the most wonderful woman in the world.

So think it over, brides. Before you fall for the idea that the way to help a man is to help him earn a living, or that the best marriages are those in which husband and wives are equal partners, think what the happy husbands have to say.

THE POINT HUSBANDS MAKE

Maybe some of them help around the house. Maybe some of them have wives who have held down jobs or are still bringing home a pay check.

But that's not what they talk about when they sit down to write why they think their wives are wonderful.

They think they are wonderful for one old-fashioned but never outdated reason. Because their wives think they are wonderful and enjoy making them feel like VIP's in their own homes.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trustworthy, agreeable, inoffensive mediocrity could become vice president.

That might be the result if the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement on how a vice president takes over from an ailing president becomes the rule — for lack of any other solution — for future presidents and vice presidents.

It's easy to see how future presidential candidates would want as their No. 2 man on the ticket an individual whose chief qualification for the job was not so much ability but trustworthiness and a gift for me-too-ism.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon — just because the Constitution doesn't spell out how a vice president takes over from a disabled president — sought to avoid possible future confusion by reaching this agreement:

If Eisenhower becomes unable to carry out his duties Nixon will decide whether he should take them over. Under the agreement Nixon can — but he's free to suit himself — consult others before deciding to become acting president.

If Eisenhower recovers he — not Nixon — will decide whether he's able to resume his job.

This kind of arrangement is all right for Eisenhower and Nixon. They trust each other. Eisenhower has confidence in Nixon's ability. So, apparently, does the Republican party or it wouldn't have picked him twice for the vice presidency.

The two men feel they can, under their agreement, handle the problem of an Eisenhower disability. They have made it plain they intend it to apply only to them.

But it may well become an unwritten rule for the future unless Congress — by proposing a constitutional amendment — puts some other arrangement into national law. One future point in particular could stand clearing up in an amendment. It's this:

Should a vice president be free to decide when a president is too disabled to do his duties or should the decision be made by a group of government officials or in some other way?

The Eisenhower administration wants a constitutional amendment and has banged away at Congress to propose one.

But Congress has been beating its gums on this whole question and has done nothing. There's a good chance it will continue doing nothing and that, without their intending it so, the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement will become a rule.

Suppose that, for lack of constitutional clarification, this agreement becomes the formula for the future. Then, with that in mind, this could happen at a political convention:

A man chosen to be a party's presidential candidate might not want as his vice-presidential running mate a man he feared might at some future time try to move in on him during a period of illness and take over the presidency.

Rather, he might want as his No. 2 man one whose chief qualification was trustworthiness — one who agreed with him but who might be far less qualified than an individual who, while trustworthy, did not see eye to eye with him on everything.

It's easy to see why: a vice president who disagreed with a president's programs might start to change them if, because of a presidential disability, he became acting president.

Happy Times

Why Some Men Fear the Challenge of Retirement

BY BEULAH STOWE

Some men fight the idea of retirement until the day they die.

Mr. S. R. M. was a lawyer in a middle-sized city. He died of a heart attack at 69. He had promised his wife he would retire at 70, but he didn't want to.

Possibly he was afraid he might miss the camaraderie of the old fifth floor of the building where his law offices were located. Possibly he thought he might miss his clients, his morning talk with the elevator boy and his diploma on the wall.

Mr. H. V. N. goes to his city office every day. His conversation is becoming vague and his eyesight is growing dim. He lives with a married son and he has never ceased to grieve for his wife, though she died 11 years ago.

He thinks he needs the backbone that a daily job inserts in his otherwise undirected existence. Mr. N. will work away his remaining years, because he has nothing else to do with them.

It is possible that both Mr. M. and Mr. N. missed a golden opportunity when they kept on the same harness and the same blinders past 65. If you, like these two men, can continue in your job if you choose to, ask yourself these questions:

1. Do I really need the money?
2. Do I find my present employment soul-satisfying, or merely time-filling?
3. What were those things I wanted to do when I was 35, 45 and 55? Can I still try them, if I retire and have time enough?
4. What have I done in my life to contribute to the world and its people? Could I do more by working here, or more if I retired?
5. Do I have the wisdom and balance to use retirement both happily and wisely?

Q—"Would buying a small motel in Florida be a good investment when I retire next year? We have about $60,000 to invest and would like to find a property which we could operate ourselves."—B.M.J.

A—Why risk your money? Some of the big hotel operators are getting into the motel business now, and the little family-run motels are being crowded out. You're about 10 years too late to find a gold mine in this field. Invest your money at a safe four per cent and let someone else worry about the balance sheets. The $2,400 a year you receive in interest will be a substantial addition to whatever pension and Social Security you will receive.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Our Common Christianity

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Some time ago I wrote about "Many Kinds of Christians," emphasizing the varieties of religious experience and the forms of faith and practice among those formerly professing to be "Christian."

I urged a greater measure of mutual trust and recognition on the part of individuals and groups toward others and toward the manifold developments under the Christian name.

An eminent Scotch churchman expressed the belief some time ago that a great need of our times was "good controversy." I think there is much truth in that, especially if the emphasis is upon "good."

The field of religion, and of Christianity, is so vast that differences of viewpoint, attitude and opinion are inevitable in the interpretation of the Bible and the Gospel and their application to life, and the nature and place of the Christian Church.

What is essential in all these differences and their expression is that all who are worthy of the name of "Christian" should not fall in love toward one another. This was the commandment of Jesus to His followers and He denounced those who called Him "Lord, Lord," but did not the things that He said.

Where the commandment of love is neglected, controversy becomes an un-Christian thing, unprofitable, and subversive of the quest of truth that could only be the true purpose of controversy.

I believe that it is possible for those whose religious experiences and opinions differ to hold one another in mutual respect, confidence and love.

For over 30 years, until he died recently, my most intimate friend was an educator and author, a devout Roman Catholic, whose home background, environment, and approach to religion were almost radically different from my Methodist background and later independency.

In our years of association we met almost every week; we spoke very freely of religion; and there never was the slightest effort on the part of one to "convert" the other. If either of us was influenced it was out of our free conversations.

As an independent Christian, it is my conviction that vital Christian experience is as eternal and everlasting as the Christ Himself.

Truth in the Church and in Christian experience still attests the anvil motto:

"Hammer away, ye hostile bands;
Your hammers break. God's anvil stands."

Hog Price Furnishes Bright Glow To U.S. Farm Income Picture

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's hog farmers have seldom had it so good.

This is the case notwithstanding sharp complaints being made about the agricultural situation by some farm leaders and congressmen.

Unusually favorable returns are flowing into pockets of hog producers. These people, incidentally, make up a large portion of the farmers in Midwestern states represented by a number of Republican congressmen who have been seeking the resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Benson. These states produce about 75 per cent of the hogs.

The corn-hog ratio reaches its all-time peak.

The complaining GOP congressmen say Benson and his farm policies are unpopular among farmers and that his continuance in office threatens to help defeat party candidates at the November elections.

About the only thing wrong with the hog situation is that many producers wish that they had more hogs to sell.

Of course, it must be said from the standpoint of the congressmen that few other segments of agriculture approach livestock farming in the matter of prices. Much of the dissatisfaction flows from crop producers. Their prices are below levels of livestock producers.

A recent Agriculture Department report said the relationship between prices farmers got for hogs in mid-February and the average market prices of feed was the most favorable on record, from the producer's standpoint.

The biggest item by far in the cost of producing hogs is feed. Generally speaking, a producer must be able to get enough from 100 pounds of live hog to buy 11 bushels of corn before he can figure on making any money. But prices in mid-February were such that 100 pounds of hog would buy 20.6 bushels of corn.

This compared with 13.7 bushels a year earlier, 13.2 for the 1947-56 February average, and 13.6 for the 1936-56 February average.

The hog prices reflect a heavy demand for meats and a downturn in hog and beef cattle production. A sharp drop in livestock prices in 1955 and 1956 led to some contraction in production last year.

When hog prices are unusually high in relation to feed costs, there is a tendency for many farmers to increase production to cash in on the good markets. In the past this expansion has usually gone too far. It brought sharp reductions in prices and losses to many producers, particularly the less efficient ones.

Advised "Modest Increase"

The current upturn in the hog market started last year. Realizing the possibility of a new cycle of overproduction, Secretary Benson urged farmers to make only modest increases this year. A survey made in December indicated a moderate 6 per cent increase in the 1958 spring pig crop. This crop will provide the pork supplies for the latter part of the year and the early part of 1959.

The department itself issued a report saying that an increase of 10 per cent or more could well bring about a disastrous drop in prices in the fall of 1958 — a period, incidentally, when candidates will be campaigning for Congress and many state and local offices.

Officials said the fact that considerably fewer hogs are being marketed now than had been expected could indicate that farmers are holding back increased numbers for breeding purposes. If this is the case, overproduction and low prices could well hit the industry a year from now.

But some government experts doubt this is the case. They say they believe farmers will be cautious because of the memory of the big dip in prices in 1955 — when many producers lost heavily. Others foresee overexpansion coming more slowly. They predict it will reach its peak — and prices their bottom — in the fall of 1960 — a time when the nation will be in the midst of a campaign for the presidency.

Conservationists To Meet Monday In Virginia

The spring meeting of the Western Illinois Council of Soil Conservation Districts will be held Monday at the Farm Bureau in Virginia.

William Petefish, chairman of the group, announces that L. J. Bartelli, state soil scientist, Champaign will give a talk on rotations, soils and change in land use recommendations during the morning session, which will begin at 10 a.m.

The afternoon session will be conducted by the state department of soil conservation with a discussion of the problems and responsibilities of district directors. At the same time the Ladies Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Petefish.

To Discuss Plans For New I.A.A. Building

Boyce Moore of Jacksonville, I.A.A. director, has called a meeting of Farm Bureau leaders of the 20th Illinois district to be held Thursday, March 13, at the Farm Bureau in Pittsfield. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The program will consist of a review of membership, marketing, youth and women's activities. Mrs. Dorothy Johnston, chairman of the state women's committee, will be present.

There will also be a discussion of the proposed plan to build a new building for the Illinois Agricultural association and its affiliates.

The groups have outgrown their present offices at 43 E. Ohio street, Chicago, which were purchased in 1946. About 120,000 square feet of space is now required and it is expected that 175,000 will be needed 10 years from now.

It is proposed to borrow $5,000,000 to build a suitable office. This plan will come up for approval at a special meeting of all voting delegates to be held in the Knights of Columbus clubrooms in Springfield on March 24.

Strong pressure is being developed downstate to erect the new building in Springfield. Many delegates feel that the association and its affiliates could do a better job if they were more centrally located "and closer to the farmer."

Morgan Bowler Wins Third Place In State Tourney

The Brown county women's team placed second in the Rural Youth division.

JESUS LOVED THEM — by Patrick and Garrison

PHILIP

"Now Philip was of Beth-saida, the city of Andrew and Peter."

—John 1:44

The Bible tells very little about this Apostle, save that he was a fellow townsman of Andrew and Peter; and apparently among the first of that little band of Galileans to follow Jesus from the outset of His ministry.

It is clear that Philip had a practical, perhaps even a mathematical turn of mind, for when the hungry multitude that followed Jesus had to be fed, He turned to Philip and asked:

"Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?"

Philip apparently made a quick estimate of the number of persons in the crowd and told Jesus:

"Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little."

There is another indication also (John XII:20-22) that Philip acted as a kind of informal secretary for Jesus. When a number of Greeks, who had come to the Passover feast at Jerusalem, wished to talk with the Nazarene, they sought out Philip.

"Sir," they told him, "we would see Jesus."

Like others of the Disciples, Philip often found it difficult to understand Jesus' words, and His profound meanings.

Jesus told the little company: "If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know Him, and have seen Him."

But this assurance only confused Philip. He said, "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us."

A little sadly perhaps, Jesus asked Philip then:

"Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?"

Philip was with the other Disciples at Jerusalem after the Ascension. And again on the day of Pentecost he is mentioned.

But following that day, our only account of him is tradition, according to which he went as a missionary to Phrygia and was later martyred and buried at Hierapolis.

Cadillac

It's an Easy Step from Dreaming to Driving!

Here he is at last—just a few miles out on his maiden journey—with his hands on the wheel and his head in the clouds. It's his!

And yet, truth to tell, he does have one regret. For he knows that he needn't have waited this long, had he but realized what an easy step it is from dreaming of a Cadillac to driving in a Cadillac.

Like a great many motorists, for instance, he was not aware that a Cadillac—in view of its obvious virtues—could be so modest in price.

Nor did he appreciate, until the facts were presented, how economical a Cadillac is to maintain or how wonderfully it holds its value over the years.

And little did he suspect how accommodating his dealer would be in welcoming him to membership in the great and distinguished family of Cadillac owners.

So, if you have your heart set on a Cadillac, you should hesitate no longer to investigate this happy set of circumstances.

In fact, why not visit your dealer today? He will be happy to help you select your favorite Cadillac model with your favorite Fleetwood interior—be it the luxurious Sixty-Two Coupe or the magnificent Eldorado Brougham.

An American Every One Should Know—

Oliver Hazard Perry

By Phelps Shepard

Editor's Note: Phelps Shepard, age 11, RR 1, Chapin, won the runner-up prize in the 9-11 age group of the "American I Think Every One Should Know" contest with this article on Perry.

Phelps Shepard

Navel Hero

We have a great naval power. We have won many a war and even more battles. Near the top of a long list of great navy men is the name of Commodore Perry.

Perry was born at South Kingston, R.I. His father was a naval officer. He served under his father in the West Indies during the naval war with France.

In 1809, Perry was given command of the warship Revenge. In the War of 1812, he was on the flagship Lawrence bearing the motto, "Don't Give up the Ship," along with his fleet.

The British had the advantage and destroyed the Lawrence. Perry and some other officers were rowed to the warship Niagara. The bombardment of two British ships made the enemy surrender.

Perry later died in 1819. When he died, Stephen Decatur said, "We have lost one of our most brilliant stars."

Gibeon's Pool Flows Again

By Mabel Hall Goltra

The ancient pool at Gibeon flows again after 2,500 years. The news was disclosed Sept. 21, 1957, by the University of Pennsylvania that the museum there had restored one of Palestine's engineering achievements.

The pool dug 80 feet down in hard limestone was discovered eight miles north of Jerusalem. The excavation brought to light one of the largest single collections of Hebrew inscriptions found in the last 50 years.

It proves that the men of Gibeon were "drawers of water." It also shows that wine making was the main industry before Gibeon and the surrounding country was laid waste by the King, Nebuchadnezzar, in 587 B. C.

Sun Stood Still

Gibeon is the city where the sun stood still and stones fell from the sky as Joshua drove back the Amorites in the Bible story. The men of Gibeon cut a cylindrical pit 37 feet in diameter, 33 feet deep.

After removing the pieces of solid rock, they cut a spiral stairway into the hole. There were 79 steps in all which circled downward until water was struck. At that depth there was a large room cut out for water drawing purposes. The cutting out and removing of all that stone with primitive bronze tools was no doubt done with slave labor, and may have taken years.

Clearing the room and stairway was finished this year by 80 men. After removing the debris and picking out historical specimens the pool began to flow as of old. An unbroken water jar was found in the water.

They found that some of the inscriptions had been impressed while the clay jars were still wet, and there was a wealth of evidence found to shed light on the business and home life of Gibeon. Among the specimens were 54 jar handles with Hebrew inscriptions on them. They also found labels from the wine jars made for export trade.

They found names of three major firms producing wine called by the familiar Bible names of Hananiah, Azariah and Amariah. There were more than 40 clay stoppers fitting into the mouths of the wine jars, and also a funnel for filling the jars.

The handles of the jars had personal seals with common Hebrew names. Sixty-eight were inscribed "For the King."

The excavation was begun last year within sound of firing from the Israeli-Jordan border three miles away. Every night all records and findings were locked up for safe keeping in Jerusalem.

No incidents have arisen to interfere with the diggings. Dr. Pritchard, the scientist in charge, expects some great surprises later on.

An American Every One Should Know

Mark Twain

By David N. Cruzan

Editor's Note: This article on Mark Twain by David Cruzan, age 14, 927 S. Diamond, was runner-up in the 12-14 age group of the "American I Think Every One Should Know" contest.

David Cruzan

Adventurer, Author

Mark Twain was born in Florida, Missouri, in 1835. Soon after though the family moved to the frontier town of Hannibal, Missouri.

It was a time of palmy days and steamboating on the Mississippi River. It was a most exciting event when the steamboats would dock. All the boys of the town came down to watch all of the operations.

When the soundings were taken to find the depth of the water, the call "mark twain" was shouted when all was clear. Samuel Clemens thus adopted that for his pen name.

Mark Twain had little formal schooling. He learned the printer's trade and later became a river pilot. This was a kind of school because the river swarmed with travel and trade sometimes called "the great university of life in the West." Then, in a few years, he began to write.

Goes Out West

The Civil War interrupted steamboating on the Mississippi so Mark Twain accompanied his brother to Nevada. He lived in the mining camps of Nevada and California as a reporter and edited and got plots for several of his stories.

Mark Twain lived many of the experiences he wrote about. Out of his own heart he drew the stories, "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn." A few of his other stories are "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," "The Prince and the Pauper," "Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc," "The Mysterious Stranger," "Life on the Mississippi" and "Roughing It."

Mark Twain married Olivia L. Langdon. For many years they made their home in Hartford, Conn. He invested his fortune in a New York publishing house and the failure of it left him without a cent and with many debts. He paid these off by making a lecturing tour.

Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) died in 1910.

Sometimes We're Sad

Yes, sometimes we're sad and Barbara P. Lippert, age 8, 715 S. Main, has drawn this very interesting picture of a sad child. Barbara is the granddaughter of Mary Ann Burke.

More drawings next Sunday so keep watching for yours and for those of your friends.

Adventure In Space

By Ronald Schroeder

Chapter 5: Exciting Moments

Editor's Note: This is the concluding chapter in the story by a Junior page reader, Ronald Schroeder, age 10, 774 S. Church, who attends Washington school.

Jim and his friend are taking a group of scientists on a trip to the moon when a hole in the space ship causes them to lose consciousness. Their pets lead the scientists racing to their aid.

Dr. Mason got Jim into his suit and Dr. Wilson got me into my suit. Dr. Johnson had found the hole in the cockpit and fixed it. Someone must have pulled the switch because when I woke up I was in my room with Dr. Mason next to my bunk.

"What happened?" I asked.

"Never mind that," he answered, "Jim is at the controls now and everything is fine. You just get some rest."

I took his advice and fell asleep. I don't know how long I slept but it must have been pretty long.

When I woke up I went to the galley and got something to eat. After that I went up to the cockpit where I found Jim.

"You get some sleep," I told him, "while I take the controls."

During the time I took the controls and the time we got to the moon I was filled in on what happened while I was asleep.

When the moon came into view I had Jim come back and radio in. We landed and got to the blockhouse safely where nearly the whole population of the station greeted us.

"Gen. Williams wants to see you again," said the same messenger.

We walked to his office and knocked on the door.

"Come in," called Gen. Williams.

We walked in and sat down.

"The whole station welcomes you back," he said. "I hope you enjoy your stay again."

"How long do we stay?" I asked.

"You will stay," he answered, "the rest of today and all tomorrow. You will leave then at 7:30 a.m. If there is anything you want just ask and we'll look. We probably won't have it but we'll look anyway.

"You may keep the same quarters you had last time you visited us."

"Thank you," we said, "and I hope the data your scientists have gathered will help you."

The next day we spent getting the ship ready and talking with the men in the station.

Countdown Begins

At 7:29 the next morning we were in the ship listening and watching the countdown.

"60 seconds," we were told. "30 seconds, 15 seconds, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, 0."

At zero I once again pulled the switch that sent the rocket motors in the last stage thundering. We rose from the platform and went speeding off toward earth. In a little while we were preparing to land on Cape Canaveral.

Slowly I brought the ship down. Slowly, slowly, there, we are on the ground. I shut off the motors.

Jim and I got up and shook hands. In flopped Fuzzy and right behind him came Scotty. We walked down the ramp onto the ground where we were flocked with reporters and photographers.

"How was the trip?" one asked.

"Is it safe?" another asked.

"The trip was fine and we're back," Jim said.

We were about to get into our car when a messenger came and told us when we were rested Mr. West wanted to see us about another trip to outer space.

"I guess we have a job to do," said Jim.

Immediately we turned and started toward Mr. West's office with Scotty and Fuzzy flopping behind us.

The End

Jeannie Studies Creature World

By Melma Huckeby Ewert

Part 1: Scorpion Children

One morning when Jeannie went to her garden she found two full-grown centipedes walking on all their legs among the potato plants. They seemed to be all working for her for there wasn't a potato beetle (Daddy said to call them that) to be found.

So she placed her own Mr. Centipede on a squash vine that was being eaten by an oblong flat creature that Jeannie had always called a "squash-bug." Today she didn't name it. "I must be sure," she thought.

Then she went to hunt Miss Millipede. There was Miss Millipede and a friend chewing into a cabbage stalk down near the ground! A nice, green, new cabbage stalk!

"You are getting right out of my garden. You are no friend to the world's hungry children; that is certain," scolded Jeannie.

Visit to Scorpions

At supper Daddy said, "Shall we visit the Scorpion family?"

"Let's do."

But Mother-dear again begged to stay at home.

"I do wonder how they are getting along," chatted Jeannie, as she got the pokers and her la-bora-to-ry.

Daddy was busy hunting just the "right sized box with a lid." He wouldn't tell why—only that he hoped to bring home a real treasure.

"What, Daddy?"

"Wait and see."

All around the Scorpion mansion were creature-tracks in the sand.

Professor Daddy examined them carefully and said they were not Scorpion tracks.

"So now," Daddy said, "we will pry the lock and look in."

Very slowly and quietly the rock lifted as their pokers pried.

Daddy was talking. "Mrs. Scorpion may be frail and burdened by now."

"What do you mean, Daddy?"

"Well, the children should be here—" continued Daddy as he pried patiently.

"What children, Daddy?"

"The Scorpion children."

"Really?"

The rock was just the angle Daddy wanted it now and he held the flash-light to light the inside of the Scorpion home.

Send your name in two or more weeks before your birthday if possible. You may write and tell about your party later if you have one.

Farmer Max Humphrey of Leakesville, N.C., had trouble with cannibalism among his young chickens, or pullets. He installed a cooling system in their pens. Now they don't get irritated by the heat and peck each other to death.

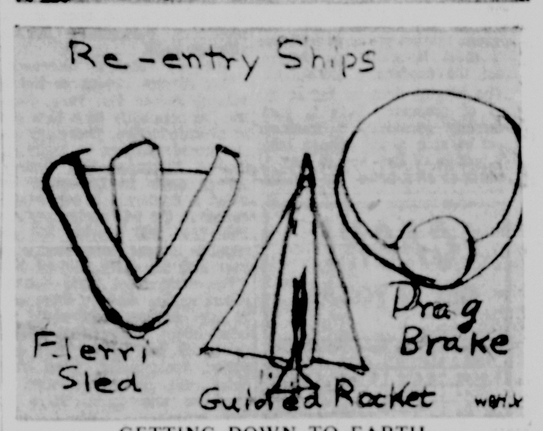

REQUIEM FOR SUSIE

The death of a pet is often a young person's first encounter with parting from a loved one. Respect and love is unselfishly shown by most all youngsters who usually want the pet buried properly.

Susie, a little girl cat living in South Jacksonville was struck by a car early one morning last week and died quickly without suffering. Her owner buried her in the yard and flowers marked the small plot, pictured above.

GETTING DOWN TO EARTH

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

One of the most difficult problems of space flight is getting the space ship and its contents back to earth without them burning up in the atmosphere.

Of course, things get hot coming rapidly through the atmosphere because of friction with the air—the same thing that creates fire when you scouts rub sticks together with a fire bow.

Several methods have been tried in an attempt to solve this problem. One of these methods successfully brought back from outer space, a nose cone of a rocket.

To bring this back they used a nose cone made of porous ceramic material instead of the usual metal, which would have melted at 15,000° F. A coolant was sprayed through the porous ceramic nose so that it could withstand heat up to 26,000° F.

If you have ever seen a double thermometer with one dry bulb and one wet bulb you will know that moisture cools a surface. If you've ever stood around in a wet bathing suit, you'll know that moisture cools, too!

The cooling solution used in the rocket was probably similar to the liquid used to cool refrigerators.

Ferri Sled

The nose cone also was probably glided through the upper air to help slow it down before it entered the earth's atmosphere. Another means proposed to re-enter the atmosphere is the Ferri Sled. This would consist of a triangle with the edges curved up over a cylindrical cabin.

This device would skip across the top of the atmosphere, as you skip a stone over the water, until it had lost enough speed to drop to earth without burning up.

Drag Brake

The most novel type of re-entry ship is the Drag Brake. This consists of a loop with a spherical cabin at one end.

This craft's motion through the atmosphere creates an electrical current over the surface of the ship. An artificial magnetic field is generated inside the loop.

By a complicated electro-magnetic process this is supposed to slow the ship and so prevent its burning up in the atmosphere. The main trouble with the Ferri Sled and the Drag Brake is that they would not fly once they reached the atmosphere. At least, they would not fly very well. To use either of these methods, the space traveler would just have to land in the ocean and wait to be picked up.

Next we'll tell you about the GIANT AMONG PLANETS.

IGY INTERFAITH COMMITTEE

NEW YORK (AP)—An interfaith committee on religion and science, to further spiritual growth along with scientific advance during the International Geophysical Year, is being sponsored and financed by the Swedenborg Foundation, Inc.

Children's rooms often show the battle scars of an indoor winter siege. One way to avoid this next winter is to use rubber tile or rubber sheeting at the strategic levels. The material resists scuffs and dirt and works well both on walls and floors.

Days of streaked, dirty arms from wringing mops are passing. Foam rubber mops wring dry without dripping moisture. But the happy part of this is that the lever for the operation is high on the handle. This keep pretty hands out of scrub water.

Sunday Of Long-Ago

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Mystery Of Toys

Small riders climbed on the dappled gray Hobby Horse for early canters. No little girl ever rode on Dapple, he was strictly a boys' playmate.

Tha shining black and red bridle was matched with a saddle and two silvery stirrups. Since it was NOT a side-saddle, little girls were NOT to mount. Grownup's hats and swirling, long dresses were the girls' possessions.

But where did all the toys go on Sunday? Perhaps that was their day of rest, but where? Small folks could only trail aimlessly after their elders until it was time to dress for Sunday School.

On one such morning there arose an emergency in the kitchen; additional supplies must be brought from the store room. With this in mind Caroline opened that door; a trailing child pursued under her elbow.

There, back of sacks of flour and sugar, beyond the churn dasher, Dapple's erect ears were visible. Little eyes sparkled, but down came Caroline's plump arm, effectual as a Rail - Road - Gate "STOP."

The door closed, no one entered that room, but the discovery was certain. Doubtless all the other small toys, with the Hobby Horse, must rest there over Sunday.

"Could Dapple close his eyes too?"

Caroline did not say. "We do not play with them on the Sabbath," was her comment.

Not until Sunday School preparations were well under way did she return for the required provisions but on Monday morning every toy again stood waiting to play in the living room of the brick house.

'Paris' At The ICEC Fair Here March 15

A Paris Street scene depicted as authentically as possible will delight those attending the ICEC International Fair to be held from five to ten-thirty Saturday night, March 15, at Lincoln School. General admission is only fifty cents and includes hours of entertainment provided on the entire first floor of the school. Members of the Jacksonville South Central chapter and friends helping with the Paris street scene and the Cafe de la Paix pictured above are, left to right, Miss Rowena Hubbard, David Mudgett, Marilyn Lacy, Terryl Garrison, Mrs. John Reeve, Mrs. Ray Bourn and Nancy France, faculty member at MacMurray College who will add to the setting her real grinding-organ and be accompanied by 6 year old "Squeaky" an adorable little monkey belonging to Mrs. Fred Warren of this city. Looking closely one can see a bird cage atop the colorful ICEC Flower Cart. The parakeet occupying the cage is owned by William Kaufmann.

Patrons at the Cafe de la Paix (Paris sidewalk cafe) may enjoy delicious pastries made from recipes from abroad served with hot coffee. The pastries may also be purchased for taking home.

Mrs. John Reeve and Mrs. Ray Bourn of Jacksonville, known for their tasty baked goods, are making the pastries for the Cafe de la Paix. Miss Zoe Marshall and her committee, remembering the demand for the cookies, cakes and pastries at the first International Fair here in 1956, arranged for Mrs. Reeve and Mrs. Bourn to work steadily several days in advance to provide adequate baked goods. Both ladies have statewide reputation for their baking talent.

Fifty Varieties

Fifty different kinds of cake and cookies will be available to appease the appetites of those who have traveled afar, as well as Fair visitors who have only read of the rich and exotic baked tidbits from other lands.

Recipe Over 200 Years Old

The baking of the foreign recipes will be followed to the letter. One of the more unusual specifies for the first ingredient: "one whole orange" and later, "mattzoth meal.". The later had to be procured for the cooks by The City Garden from a Springfield firm, to comply to the exact recipe. This particular cake was served over 100 years ago to royalty and guests-of-means in the musical de Reszke family home in Poland. It is known as a Polish Guest Cake.

Marches aux Puces

The "Marches aux Puces" or translated, Flea Market, at the Porte de Clignancourt, France, where sidewalk stalls offer wares, will be in operation at the Fair.

The Flea Market is a favorite haunt of the American tourist in France. It is here that everything imaginable is offered for sale. Some is of real value, some just amusing trifles but always worth the price asked.

There will also be a White Elephant booth with tables of costume jewelry of good quality and reasonably priced.

Puppet Show

There will be an amusing Puppet Show being staged by members of Miss Mabel Ruyle's French class at the Jacksonville high school. Members of the class not operating the puppets will stroll through the halls of the school entertaining with French songs and ballads.

There will be a stand where one may purchase rare baby orchids, flown here for the Fair from Hawaii, and sold from the handsome Flower Cart decorated by Mr Mudgett and his committee, as seen in the picture above, in Swedish design. There will also be potted plants for sale.

There will be trained artists who will sketch Fair visitors on the spot. The artists are students from Mr. Sidman's art class at MacMurray College.

Members of Miss Doan's JHS art classes will also be offering costume jewelry hand-made especially for the Fair.

At 9:30 sharp, reports Miss Rowena Hubbard, chairman for the Flea Market, a real auction will get underway. Alvin Middendorf of Jacksonville has donated his services in offering for sale the special gifts made to the ICEC committee for the Fair. Included will be donations from Adlai Stevenson, Governor Stratton, Dale Evans and Roy Rogers and many others.

International Theatre

The International Theatre in the auditorium will start at 7 p.m. and be repeated again at 8 o'clock. Students from other lands attending MacMurray College and Illinois College will present short plays and skits depicting life in their respective native countries.

The Theatre, for which there is no charge, will be over in time for those attending to visit the auction taking place in the school gymnasium.

Hundreds of Displays

Every room on the first floor of the school will be occupied with entertaining features. Most of the classrooms will have displays of lovely and treasured articles loaned to the ICEC committee for display.

There will be placards giving the name of the donor and the country represented.

There will also be in operation during the Fair hours, 5 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., an Import Bar where one may buy at reasonable cost many articles from abroad, ordered especially for the Fair.

Included will be lovely costume jewelry, linens and lace, novelties, glassware, China and some toys.

Tickets for the Foreign Foods dinner, to be served in the school cafeteria, were all sold in advance of the Fair.

Miss Dorothy M. Fenton

A native of the state of Wisconsin, Miss Dorothy M. Fenton, has assumed the duties of head librarian at the Jacksonville Public Library. Miss Fenton succeeds Miss Frances Bailey who recently resigned.

Miss Fenton did graduate work in library science at the University of Wisconsin and received her Master of Science in Library Service from Columbia University School of Library Science in 1930.

She has served in various capacities at Lawrence College, Dakota Wesleyan University at Mitchell, South Dakota and from 1924 was librarian at Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark.

She is a member of American Library Association; Association of College and Reference Librarians; Arkansas Library Association; American Association of University Professors; American Association of University Women.

Was State second vice president of Delta Kappa Gamma for four years and was serving as president of the Altrusa Club of Jonesboro, Arkansas at the time of her resignation from the Arkansas State College.

Change Meeting Date To Plan Library Week

Ernest L. Hoagland, chairman, has announced the Jacksonville Committee for National Library Week will meet Wednesday night, March 12, instead of the previously scheduled March 11.

The change of plans is due to the Kick-off dinner Tuesday night for the Passavant Hospital School of Nursing Building Fund Team. Many of the committee members are also members of this Team.

Wednesday night Miss Fenton will be formally presented to this committee.

Already the new Librarian is engrossed in local projects such as the observance here for Library Week and is cooperating with the Morgan County Garden Club in offering special books on the planting of trees to beautify Morgan County in the club's new project "Plant Morgan County."

Executive Board Approves Garden Club Committee Project, "Plant Morgan County"

The executive board of the Morgan County Garden Club in a recent meeting unanimously approved recommendations of the club's Civic Beautification Committee for the promotion of a "Plant Morgan County" project.

The committee includes, chairman, Mrs. Vernon Scholfield; co-chairman, Mrs. Earl Walters, and members, Mrs. John Burch, Mrs. Chester Colton, Mrs. Robert Hartman, Mrs. Harold Joy, Miss Emma Mae Leonhard and Mrs. R. E. Miller. Mrs. Courtney Crouch Wright is the consultant.

In the past, the Garden Club has undertaken the landscaping of public properties such as the Youth Center and the Public Library.

With the idea that many more plantings could be made in an individual manner, the committee is proposing the planting of flowering crabapples, flowering dogwood, magnolia, and red bud on individual properties.

The idea of a single community plant was suggested but experience with elm trees caused the committee to recommend a variety of plants. The program calls for the continuation of the campaign for at least three or four years.

Concentrate On Few

There is no intent to discourage the use of other plants such as shade trees, evergreens, shrubs, annuals, or perrenials but the committee wishes to concentrate on the ornamental and cultural characteristics of only a few trees at one time.

Boon For All

Ornamental trees which will adorn residential landscapes will mean more gracious living for every Morgan County family. This can be accomplished easily and effectively by the combined efforts of private citizens and civic organizations working together.

Property values will be increased and community loyalty and pride will grow making Morgan County a better place in which to live and trade.

Flowering Crabapple

Flowering crabapples were chosen because of their hardiness, adaptability to a variety of conditions, ease of transplanting and their beauty in spring when loaded with blossoms. They flower when quite young and many varieties also produce ornamental fruits in the fall which attract birds.

They may be used for lawn specimen trees or for mass planting. There is a great variety: single and double, and most are very fragrant. In autumn, a great many of the species are again attractive with red, yellow, or green fruits.

Ornamental Dogwood

The dogwood with its masses of early spring flowers, its dark red autumn foliage and its bright red berries is probably our most ornamental native tree.

The Illinois State Department of Conservation believes that it should be used much more extensively in roadside and ornamental plantings.

Magnolia Distinctive

One of the most distinctive families of plants is the magnolia. This conspicious flowering tree is tolerant of city conditions in residential areas, and with care will live many years.

Recommend Red Bud

The Illinois State Department of Conservation recommends the red bud be cultivated more extensively as an ormental tree in our state. The bright purplish-red, pea-shaped flowers grow in clusters along the branches and appear before, or, with the leaves in early spring.

Information will be published soon concerning flower color, procedure for planting, pruning, growth rate, and season of bloom. For persons interested in more technical information, there are a large number of books and magazines in our public library which would provide reliable material.

Name For Areas

An excellent suggestion has been made relative to roadside plantings. Neighbors on a rural road might choose one of the suggested trees for extensive planting and name the road, for example, Crabapple Lane or Red Bud Road.

Use Tried And True Practice

Successful planting depends on careful planning ahead. This may be done on paper and by driving stakes where the plants are to be set. General suggestions will be made through the press also. Locally grown plants, which are already adjusted to the climatic conditions in our area should have a better chance to survive after planting. Careful observation of plant varieties that grow in the neighborhood is wise, for those that appear attractive and thrive year after year are obvious good choices for our climate.

Morgan County can be only as attractive as its people make it. The county club earnestly asks cooperation of every man, woman and child in the county to consider planting a tree to beautify his or her neighborhood.

C.D. Of A. To Sponsor 1958 Pageant Of Brides April 7

Mrs. Charles Lockman, Mrs. Verne Bergschneider, and Mrs. Mary Minks, chairmen for the second annual Bridal Pageant, sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America, have announced a complete list of all committees.

The members of the major committees have been active for the past few months formulating plans for this Pageant to be given at Formaz Hall on Monday, April 7.

Last year a capacity crowd viewed an impressively beautiful showing of bridal fashions of days gone by. Mrs. Edward J. Flynn, accompanied at the organ by her son, Greg, sang the traditional "I Love You Truly," vocally recalling the fashionable weddings of the past.

Plans for the Pageant this year are even more outstanding than the huge simulated antique picture frame through which the models appeared last year. Gowns worn twenty-five, fifty, and seventy-five years ago are being offered for display by prominent residents of this area.

The committees have been keeping the exact setting of the Pageant confidential and promise the 1958 audience to be completely captivated this year.

Coming To Jacksonville Mar. 18

Concordia Seminary Chorus of St. Louis, Mo., will include Jacksonville on its six day concert tour of Iowa, Minnesota, and Illinois, appearing here Tuesday, March 18, at MacMurray College in Annie Merner Chapel at 8:00 p.m.

This 65-voice male chorus, under the direction of Dr. William Heyne, has performed in many of the larger cities of the Midwest and Eastern sections of the country during its 54-year history. However, this will be the first time in recent years that this prominent male group has toured in this part of the country.

This chorus, today ranked by music critics all over the country as one of the foremost male choruses in America, has an unusual history which dates back as far as 1902, when it was organized. It was in the early '20's that the Seminary Chorus became known as the largest male chorus in the world. For several years the total number of members neared the 200 mark.

The Seminary Chorus of today consists of 65 singers selected from the student body which numbers over 550, in spite of the fact that there was no entering class for the first time this year because of the opening of Concordia's Senior College at Fort Wayne, Ind. Although this year's chorus presents a different numerical front from the choruses of the past, it continues in its tradition of sincerity and fine musicianship.

Each of the chorus members is preparing for the ministry in the Lutheran church—Missouri Synod.

CATERPILLAR CAMERA—Focused on targets two miles away, this nine-foot camera has brought new information about aerial haze penetration in research at Eastman Kodak, Rochester, N.Y. Looking like a huge caterpillar with its diaphragm ribs encased in a weather jacket, the unit is operated here by scientists, from left, Stanley B. Saunders, H. R. Condit, and Peter C. Trapalino. Condit, program head, said that differences from normal contrast in target pictures made with the 95-inch focal length camera help to indicate what films can best "see" through haze.

ONLY 10 REMAIN OF "THAT OLD GANG" OF IKE'S— With James J. Wadsworth stepping in to replace Harold Stassen in the disarmament post and the continuing clamor for the removal of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, President Eisenhower has every right to sing that old lament about "That Old Gang of Mine." Only 10 of his original 21 top appointees are still serving on the Eisenhower team. Five Cabinet members are gone—Charles Wilson from Defense, George Humphrey from the Treasury, Douglas McKay from Interior, Herbert Brownell from Justice, Martin Durkin from Labor and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby from Welfare. Actually, Mrs. Hobby started out as federal security director but moved into the Cabinet when the Welfare Department was created. Changes in the Ike team are shown in this diagram. The faces of the old Ike men—who started in office with the President five years ago—are shown in sketches. The newer members of the Eisenhower team are shown in photographs. There are 11 of these.

"MADE MEDICINE"

Sitting Bull generally is given the credit of opposing General Custer in the Battle of the Little Big Horn. Actually, Crazy Horse was the Sioux leader in that battle and Sitting Bull acted only as the holy man who "made medicine."

Stuffing things into the refrigerator is becoming a national habit. However, some foods, such as honey, should not go into the refrigerator. Keep honey at room temperature to prevent crystallization. Creamed honey may be chilled.

MECHANICAL NOSE

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Newark firemen will now be able to sniff smoke with a mechanical sniffer instead of their own sniffers, which are unsuited to the task.

The fire department's recently acquired mechanical sniffer is a battery-operated instrument which can detect the dangers of smoke, thus enabling firemen to don gas masks without exposure to the fumes.

PERFECT PEARLS

Perfectly round pearls are considered the finest. Drop or pear shapes, oval shapes and button shapes are next in value in the order named. Irregular shaped pearls, called baroque pearls, are the least valuable.

$700 'SPECTACULAR'

GREENSBURG, Ind. (AP)—Frederick Craig, 15, and Lowell Greer, 13, can sympathize with the woes of Hollywood movie producers.

The two youngsters recently finished shooting on their own $700 epic, complete with color and sound. They took one scene 40 times before it came up to their artistic standards.

It was risky business, too. The film depicted life in a bee colony, and all the "actors" came fully equipped with stingers.

CONTRARY CANARY

NUTLEY, N. J. (AP)—Rudy Klemm may make the "little yellow dickie bird" a thing of the past. He's trying to breed a bright red canary.

Klem has assembled about six South American canaries for cross-breeding. Averaging about a chick a month, Klemm figures it will take his pets about five to 10 years to come up with an all-red canary.

FREAK DEER IN SASKATCHEWAN

TISDALE, Sask. (AP)—Conservation Officer Doug Pegg displayed a rarity of the animal world—the head of a female white-tail deer which had sprouted horns. It was shot during the hunting season by Joe Babisch of Meskanaw.

WILL IT BOUNCE?

McPHERSON, Kan. (AP)—A single $400 check made out to 174 different persons has officials worrying over how to cash it.

The check was issued by the clerk of the District Court here in payment for three-quarters of an acre of land to be used for highway right-of-way.

The 174 payees include the known heirs of several estates in which the tract of land is involved.

Naturally, there wasn't room on the check to type in the names of all the 174 heirs, so the clerk typed the names on a legal-size sheet of paper and pasted it to the check.

Judge George Allison, who ordered the check issued, suggested a trustee be authorized to cash it and distribute the money among the 174 persons, meaning each heir would get roughly $2.30.

BIG LEAGUERS IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO (AP)—No less than six Big Ten varsity baseball coaches are former major league performers.

Probably the best know is Freddie Lindstrom of Northwestern, long-time New York Giant infielder who also played with Pittsburgh, Chicago and Brooklyn of the National League.

The others are Ernie Andres of Indiana (Boston Red Sox), Ray Fisher of Michigan (New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds), Marty Karow of Ohio State (Red Sox), Otto Vogel of Iowa (Chicago Cubs), and Dick Siebert of Minnesota (Brooklyn, St. Louis Cards and Philadelphia Athletics).

The public is cordially invited to attend the eleventh annual billiard tournament at The Drexel Sat. and Sun. The top players in this section of the state will be present. No admission.

CALVERLEY MADE FAMOUS SHOT

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most famous shots in National Invitation Tournament history was made by Ernie Calverley of Rhode Island in 1946. In a quarter-final game against Bowling Green, Calverley, with two seconds remaining, heaved the basketball 55 feet and the basket tied the score. Rhode Island won in overtime, 46-45.

Pitcher Harry Byrd is the heaviest player on the Detroit Tiger roster. He weighs 215 pounds.

REGIONAL WRAPUP ACTION SHOTS

New Berlin's Tom Marr, who fouled out in the third quarter, snarls a rebound out of the outstretched arms of JHS' Milt McPike (54) in the shot to the left. John Giddings (43) looks the battle over.
Merritt Norvell (14) and Dave Bone of JHS deflect the ball just after one of their teammates put the ball through the hoop and the two boys had John Giddings (right)out of rebounding position. JHS won the scrap with a second half rally, 60-40.

Rock Falls Gains Easy Win, 84-50; Notre Dame Rock Island Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rock Falls, favored to win the Illinois High School basketball title, survived a flurry of regional championship upsets Friday night with an effortless 84-50 victory over Dixon.

Rock Island, Notre Dame of Quincy and Evanston were among those victimized.

Moline eliminated Rock Island, 55-54; Quincy blasted Notre Dame of Quincy, 52-41, and Warren outlasted Evanston 57-55.

Rock Falls had a little trouble in the first quarter when Dixon managed to remain within three points of the lead but the state's top team opened up and jumped to a 34-19 halftime lead.

Jim Cain and Ken Siebel led Rock Falls with 21 and 17 points, respectively.

Rock Island, rated fifth, trailed Moline most of the way, caught up in the final quarter only to have Moline sink four vital free throws for the victory. Tom Potter was tops for Moline with 20 points but Rock Island's Don Nelson took scoring honors with 26.

Notre Dame held a 16-13 first quarter lead over Quincy but gradually lost out. Quincy went ahead 27-24 at halftime and had the game wrapped up by the end of three quarters with a 39-28 lead.

Larry Nixon led Quincy with 20 points. The defeat was the second for Notre Dame in 29 games.

Evanston, another rated team, suffered a mild upset at the hands of Warren in a closely fought contest which saw the score tied 13 times. Jay Threadgill's four straight free throws broke a 53-53 tie and assured Warren a berth in the sectionals.

Little Tiskilwa sprang a major surprise in subduing Princeton, 76-75. Charles Sash paved the way with 34 points and scored the winning baskets with eight seconds remaining.

Herrin, West Frankfort and Mount Vernon all managed to move into the sections. Herrin, the No. 3 team, defeated Carbondale Attucks, 67-61; West Frankfort, ranked fourth, downed Benton, 62-55, and Mount Vernon beat Mount Carmel 57-49.

Alwood, the only undefeated team in the state besides Marshall of Chicago, kept its slate clean with its 29th straight — a 49-41 triumph over Aledo. Jerry Gould was tops for the victors with 20 points.

West Aurora had a tight squeek in a 57-56 overtime triumph over Batavia. Bill Small dropped a pair of free throws with eight seconds remaining to tie the game at 53-all and force the overtime. Small then scored what proved to be the winning basket in the extra period. He topped West scorers with 18 points.

Morton, which had scored two upsets in reaching the the finals at Pekin, was eliminated by Spalding, 42-41. The game was tied 33-33 going into the final quarter. Another close battle saw Schlarman defeat Georgetown, 61-60.

East Rockford, ranked seventh, slipped past West Rockford, 45-43, on a 15-foot basket by Jim Jeras with 10 seconds left. East Rockford's next opponent will be Rock Falls in the first game of the Rockford sectional.

In a game of keep-away, Trinity of Bloomington upset Clinton, 21-20. Trinity controlled the ball for a last shot and Tony Jaskowiak made good on a 30-footer with five seconds to go.

Centralia pulled off a 64-60 upset over Okawville which had a 28-1 record going into the Salem regional finale. The victory was Centralia's 15th in 29 games.

Best punter of footballs in Syracuse University history was Avatus Stone. His 96 punts during the 1950-51 campaigns averaged 39.7 yards.

ROY SIEVERS

The Washington Senators won only 55 games in 1957. Several of them came as a direct result of the power hitting of Roy Sievers. Most were hard earned victories.

In the following situation manager Cookie Lavagetto had to make a split-second decision. His decision helped pull the game out of the fire and into the Senators' win column. Would you have ordered the same move?

The Senators and Detroit are deadlocked 1-1 in the last of the ninth at Washington. Frank Lary (R) is on the mound for the Tigers. Pete Runnels opens the inning with a single and moves to second when Roy Sievers is hit by a pitched ball. Herb Plews sacrifices for the first out, the runners advancing. Jim Lemon is walked intentionally, filling the bases. At this point, Al Aber (L) replaces Lary. Lou Berberet (L) is the next batter with Milt Bolling (R) to follow.

Would you:
a. Have Berberet try a squeeze bunt?
b. Put in a right-handed pinch-hitter for Berberet?
c. Let Berberet swing away?
d. Order Runnels to try a steal of home?

(Other data: Berberet has 14 hits in 59 times at bat for a .237 average on the season; Runnels has one steal in 20 games; the Senators' right-handed pinch-hitters are Bob Usher, Ed Fitz Gerald and Jerry Snyder.)

Result: B—Fitz Gerald pinch hits for Berberet and singles for the winning run, Senators win 2-1 (May 20).

Byrne Retires From Baseball To Join Oil Staff

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Tommy Byrne, 38-year-old left-handed pitcher of the New York Yankees retired from baseball Friday. Byrne, who lives in Wake Forest, N. C., has joined the staff of an oil company.

Tommy came up with the Bombers in 1943, served two years as a Naval officer, and then resumed his baseball career after the war. He was traded away in 1951 and hurled for the St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators before dropping back to the minors in 1953.

He made a comeback in the Pacific Coast League, winning 20 games for Seattle in 1954, and was purchased by the Yanks in September of that year. He won honor as baseball's "comeback man of the year" in 1955 when he helped the Yankees to the American League pennant with 16 victories.

Byrne's lifetime record for 13 major league seasons was 85-69, with a 4.11 ERA.

Majors Begin Flexing Muscles In Exhibitions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Widespread winter freezes may have made it a bad year for grapefruit but the Grapefruit League goes on forever.

Major league baseball teams, in training in Florida and Arizona, begin flexing their spring muscles Saturday in a full schedule of exhibition games.

In some places there will be a "New Look."

The onetime New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers will be wearing different uniforms. And four teams will have managers at the helm who weren't on the same job a year ago.

The Giants, new heroes of the populace in San Francisco, take on the Cleveland Indians at Tucson, Ariz.

Cleveland is one of the teams which has figured in a managerial shift since the start of the 1957 campaign. Bobby Bragan, who was fired as skipper of the Pittsburgh Pirates last August, will be barking orders for the Indians.

Bragan's place as manager of the Pirates was taken over by Danny Murtaugh, who gets a full shot at the job this year. The Washington Senators start with a skipper who was just a coach this time a year ago; Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto. The Kansas City Athletics have a new head man in Harry Craft.

Lavagetto succeeded Charley Dressen at the Washington helm last May 7. Craft became the Kansas City manager last Aug. 6, replacing Lou Boudreau.

The World Champion Milwaukee Braves, heavily favored to repeat as National League winners, open their spring season against the ambitious Detroit Tigers at Lakeland, Fla. The American League Champion New York Yankees face the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Jimmer, one of the leading 3-year-olds at Hialeah, was named for owner M. N. Goodwin's 2-year-old son, Jimmy. The youngster is called Jimmer at home here.

New Berlin Yields To Taller, Rampaging Crimsons In Regional

By STAN SPOTTS

Jacksonville High's Crimsons bagged their eighth Regional Tournament crown in nine years with a second half barrage that made New Berlin's Pretzels victim number 24 of the season for the Crimsons in 28 games Friday night at the JHS Bowl in the finals played before a sellout crowd.

The Crimsons silenced any New Berlin hopes for an upset after they got off to a slow start in the first half when they took the floor in the third quarter and dominated the boards, which was the deciding factor in the final outcome, plus the fact that Jacksonville began to connect on its shots. JHS led after three quarters, 45-29, a 16-point difference, and was on top at the final horn, 60-40.

Pretzels Take Lead

Two very tense ball clubs got the finale of the regional playoffs underway and both encountered field goal difficulty. Jacksonville went 3:08 of the first eight minutes without a tally from the field until Barry Heaton hit a long 20-footer to break the 'ice' from the field for the Crimsons. Heaton's tally came with 4:52 left in the initial frame and the bucket gave JHS a slim 4-3 lead.

Free throws played an important factor in the first period as single markers from the charity line knotted the score on three occasions and gave each club brief one-point leads. The biggest point spread of the frame was by three, 10-7, and New Berlin held it when a Giddings bucket came with :31 seconds left in the first chapter. Dave Bone came off the JHS bench in the final seconds of play and hit a quick layup to narrow the count to one, 10-9, New Berlin's favor as the horn sounded to end play.

Crimsons Get Lead

Warcup hit 19 seconds following the tip to get the second period underway to get JHS its fourth lead in the game, 11-10. A Crossin layup plus a Marr free throw overshadowed Warcup's try, however, and the Pretzels led, 13-11, with seven minutes left before halftime. Scott deadlocked the score for the fourth time in the three-quarter thriller, 13-all with 5:31 remaining. Two free throws by Dave Bone 22 seconds later made it 15-13 but sophomore Bob Bond hit on a two-pointer with 4:23 showing on the clock to throw the game into its fifth deadlock, 15-15. Guard Denny Warcup put JHS on top for the remainder of the championship contest with a side tally, which made it 17-15, and only three minutes and 54 seconds were left in the second canto.

Another tally by Warcup 28 seconds later and then a Dave Bone free throw with 1:41 left to go shot the Crimsons into a five point gap, 20-15.

Baskets by Giddings and Crossin of New Berlin, while Scott of JHS was hitting one, made the score read Jacksonville 22, New Berlin 19, as the two clubs departed for the dressing rooms and their halftime pep talk.

Roll In Third Canto

New Berlin maintained its fine showing in the third chapter but JHS' height began to tell on the Pretzels under the boards, which seemed to belong to the losers in the first two quarters.

The Pretzels pulled to within five tallies of the leaders twice in the opening moments of the stanza but that's as close as they came.

The period was 4:43 old when JHS captured the largest gap separating the two clubs in the game up to this point, 32-22, a 10-point difference on a tally by McPike. From there on, the Crimsons maintained anywhere from a 11 to 16 point spread.

The Jacks kept plugging away in the final chapter to start working on a 20-point margin but the Pretzels didn't yield for awhile. Jacksonville lost Bone via fouls with 3:08 left and JHS led by 16, 50-34. With 1:28 left in the game, McPike made the 20-point difference with a layup, 56-36, but New Berlin's Crossin and Compardo hit in the closing 13 seconds to make it 60-40, and that was the regional crown for the champions.

Jacksonville now advances to the Springfield Sectional and they'll play Ray Page's Solons in the Wednesday night opener at the Armory. New Berlin's eliminated Pretzels wound up their fine cage campaign with a total of 27 wins. Their loss to Jacksonville Friday night was the third of the season.

Milt McPike brought his season's total to 387 points with a 20 point output, which was high for the Crimsons. Mike Scott and Danny Warcup aided the JHS scoring also with 11 tallies apiece.

Bob Crossin was Bill Hovey's big noise with 12 tallies. JHS outhit the Pretzels from the field, 23-11.

The Crimsons were a quiet bunch following the championship tilt but after the trophy presentation by Harry Fitzhugh, President of the Illinois High School Association, the JHS players ran wild for coach John Chapman and carried him from the floor on their shoulders.

Plenty of well-wishers came around in the dressing room to offer their congratulations to the players and to the coaches after the finale. The Crimsons repeated a quiet ceremony, the same as they did following their undefeated football season when Merritt Norvell's shrill whistle stopped all activity and all the Crimsons bowed their heads to offer silent prayers.

Quincy Stuns Sixth-Ranked Notre Dame, 52-41

QUINCY—Quincy High's Bluedevils ended Notre Dame's long season prestige Friday night in the Regional Tourney finals at Quincy College's gymnasium before a packed house. Quincy humiliated the Raiders, 52-41, to avenge its only loss to Notre Dame in the finals at Barry last season.

Notre Dame fell off the pace in the second quarter and trailed the rest of the way. The contest was well played and was a clean game as only 21 fouls were called, 11 against Notre Dame and 10 against the Bluedevils.

The victory enabled Quincy to advance to its own sectional playoff next week in the third phase of the state-wide eliminations.

Early Wynn Goes After All The Wins He Can Get

By ED WILKS

TAMPA (AP)—"I don't know that I ever set any goals for myself," said Early Wynn. "I just want to win as many as I can get."

The 38-year-old righthander, picked up along with outfielder Al Smith by the Chicago White Sox from Cleveland for Minnie Minoso and Fred Hatfield in a December trade, was standing in the clubhouse under the stands at Al Lopez Field, changing sweat shirts.

The one he dropped to the floor was wringing wet, yet the day's workout was only half through. A "real pro," the White Sox call Wynn, a guy who hustles and works.

It was that work habit that may have contributed to Wynn's 14-17 record last year. It was his worst year on the lost side since he picked up checks from the Washington Senators in the '40s. He hadn't lost 17 since 1948, when he was 8-19 with the seventh place Nats.

Since then he three times has won 20 or more—all with Cleveland and with Lopez, who managed the Indians from 1951 through 1956.

"Last year I guess I worked with only two or three days rest a little too often. But we (the Indians) had Score out and Lemon and Narleski and Mossi out with injuries and we had to double up.

"I feel fine now," said Wynn, who pairs with Bob Lemon as the only 200-game winners active in the American League. "I just hope it stays that way.

"Win 20? I don't know. A pitcher could with this club. It's a contender."

All you have to do is beat the Yankees, it was suggested.

Scott County Residents Give To Heart Fund

BLUFFS—Mrs. Ralph Mueller, North Scott County Chairman of the Heart Fund campaign, reports that to date a total of $280.70 has been collected. The area includes Exeter, Naples, and all the rural area. There was one benefit held by the IOOF. Mrs. Mueller also made it known that Memorial gifts for HEART may be given to her at any time as she has appropriate cards and receipts to use.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ranft have returned home from a visit in the Ozarks at Lighthouse Lodge. While they were attending the Lodge it gave the operators, Mr. and Mrs. Richard King, an opportunity to spend a few days in Scott and Pike Counties. The Ranfts report fishing in spite of the cold weather. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stegemann spent a few days at Lighthouse Lodge on their return from Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Rosa Taylor visited friends in Bluffs Wednesday.

Mrs. Ray L. Kendall and Mrs. Margaret Edlen have returned from a Florida vacation. Mrs. Kendall is now staying at the Dunlap Hotel in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Roy Vortman returned to her home in Montpelier, Ohio, Sunday evening after a visit with her children and her mother.

Going were Maureen Dorsett, Jay Weber, Robert Riggs, Norman Michael, Sylvia Deppe, Susan Edwards, Joyce Senters, Carol Jean Hart, Delores Winkelman, Ronnie and Beverly Plattner and Kenneth Lindsey. The Ashland group had charge of the devotions. The scripture lesson was read by Jay Weber, responsive reading was given by Robert Riggs. Joyce Senters was leader of the choral group, and they sang "No One Ask," accompanied by Maureen Dorsett.

A supper was served by the Arenzville W.S.C.S. at the Legion hall, to which 125 attended.

by ED LACY

XXIII

SHE was staring at me with cool eyes. I could see Mrs. Owens mentioning Ed had said something about getting that place in California soon and Susan Owens going to work like a ferret. This fitted in with Wales hunting around the abandoned garage for dough . . . except that was 10 years ago and this account was less than 10 weeks old. I asked, "Where's the other bankbooks?"

"Look, look, Pa rarely had one buck to rub against another. That I know. And I looked carefully, under everything. This is all I found," Susan said.

"I know you did, Mrs. Owens, you told me your husband said he might be able to get a farm in California soon. Are you positive he didn't have any money hidden away?"

"Do we look like rich people?" the old lady asked, her eyes beginning to water.

"Looks don't mean a thing. Did Ed at any time in the last dozen years talk about striking big money?"

"No. Never!" The tears came.

"What you doing to Ma?" Susan barked.

While she was drying her face with her apron I stared at Susan, who gave it right back to me, eye-to-eye stuff. I asked, "What do you want me to do? Don't expect me to go on the hook, this is evidence and I won't—"

"We're playing it straight with you, Mr. Wintino," Susan cut in. "You were one of the detectives on the case — we're telling you about it. But Ma felt that since you're new and not boiled in oil like some of the old-timers, you'd understand what four grand means to a cop's widow scrimping along on a lousy pension."

"Sure I understand. But I'm not going to hang myself. I have to turn this in."

"Nobody is asking you not to; if you have to turn the money in, you have to. Suppose we hold on to it till tomorrow? I have a list of the bill numbers. You take the bankbook, see what you can find out. For all we know maybe one of Pa's nags finally came in. We're not leaving town—if we didn't want to play straight we could have kept mum about all this. If by tomorrow afternoon you feel this has something to do with the case, we'll hand it over. If you ask for it now, we'll get tough too, force you to get a court order. There, that gives you an out."

I grinned at her with admiration—she was real smart.

"I'll play along till tomorrow afternoon. But I want a list of the bills, the bankbook, and a sample of your father's writing, his signature if you have it handy. I'll have to call the precinct, tell them something. If my lieutenant is there, you're out of luck. If not, I called and covered myself—sort of. You'll have to take that gamble."

"If you want it that way. I'll tell anybody about a court order."

I DIALED the squad room. Landon answered, said Reed was gone for the day. I told him, "I'm over at Mrs. Owens' house. She's found something that might be a lead, a canceled savings bankbook that—"

"Will you never stop playing detective?" Landon asked. I tried not to sound relieved over the phone as I said, "Well, Reed knows I'm here. Tell him I'll check on it in the morning and be in touch with him. It may be important."

Susan handed me the list of serial numbers and dropped two large envelopes on the table. I picked a couple of fifties from the pile for a spot check as Susan said, "You have a real trusting nature."

"Just careful." The bills checked with the list. "Put the money in one of the envelopes and don't play with it. Speaking of money, Mrs. Owens, did the late Mrs. Wales ever mention money? Did she seem well fixed?"

"Indeed not. They lived on the upper West Side in a cheap apartment house. She and Al were very happy. He never once complained about her delicate condition or the doctor bills."

I thought of Rose and her little man-and-wife private world.

"Never saw them have a fight," the old lady went on. "And when poor Dora took real sick back in 1949, Al saw to it she had only the best, even though he knew it was hopeless. They must have saved during the years — like I said they never lived well, and all their savings went for these big doctors."

"Recall the name of any of them?" I asked.

MRS. OWENS turned her moon puss toward the ceiling in thought. "Yes, I do. Because I once had to take Dora over to Park Avenue for X-ray treatments when Al was stuck on a case. It was Seventy-ninth and Park and I remember because it was the first time I was ever in that rich section, and the doctor, he had the same name as the ballplayer, Di Maggio."

I took the envelope, sealed it, and wrote across the flap, "Keep this shut and don't finger the money, might still raise prints on the bills." I gave it back to Susan. "I'm not kidding, don't open this envelope and don't lose it." I took the second envelope and using my nails, peeled the remains of the tape from the drawer, dropped them in the envelope and pocketed it. "Might get prints from this too, if you haven't smudged it too much." I took the drawer, looked around, and put it behind the piano. "Leave this here, don't let anybody touch it. More possible prints."

PINT-SIZED HERO

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)— Five-year-old Douglas Albanese saw smoke coming from the door of a neighbor's home.

Douglas, a kindergarten pupil, gave the alarm by running to another neighbors. Mrs. Floree Wright, ill with pneumonia and under sedation, was rescued from a smouldering couch. Firemen said she might have perished in smoke or flames except for Douglas' quick action.

SPEEDS LAB WORK

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Medical College of Virginia has a new $3,500 machine which can help predict when a child will go into convulsions, indicate the cause of a coma or measure the concentration of such substances as sugar. Technicians say it will double the speed of laboratory work.
